REGARDING RATE BILL.

Senator McCumber Denies Statement in New York Tribune.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—The rate bill found an echo in the senate today when Senator McCumber rose to a question of personal privilege to make reply to a publication in the New York Tribune, charging that one of the North Dakota Senators would accomplish the defeat of certain provisions of the bill. The amendment was described as a "little joker" and was represented that by changing the word "regularly" to the word "lawful" the common carriers would be free to disregard the orders of the commission. It was stated that the senator had admitted that such would be the result. Senator McCumber said that he had never made any such admission. He expressed the opinion that if there had been any "joker" on the bill it was on the writer of the amendment. He also said that the amendment could not have any effect like that indicated.

POPE STILL IMPROVING.

Pontiff Amused by Exaggerated Reports of Illness.

ROME, May 22.—The improvement in the condition of the Pope continues, and the attack of the gout is considered to have ended. He was able this morning to descend to the apartment where he gives his audiences, which is on the floor below the one where he sleeps, and received Cardinal Merry Del Val, papal secretary of state, Mgr. Bisleti, major domo of the Vatican, and Cardinal Kaschthaler, Archbishop of Salsburg, with whom he conversed for some time. The pontiff joked about his illness, saying that he had been much amused by certain reports in the press depicting him as being at death's door.

BIDS DEPUTIES A HEARTY WELCOME

Francis Joseph Opens Hungarian Parliament.

Thankful That Misunderstandings are Over.

BUDA PESTH, Hungary, May 22.—The Hungarian Parliament was formally opened at the royal castle today by Emperor-King Francis Joseph, who, in the speech from the throne, bade the deputies a hearty welcome and expressed his keen thankfulness that the misunderstandings had passed away.

"It is painful to our paternal heart," said His Majesty, "to look back on the events of the recent past which disturbed the orderly course of constitutional life. We are thankful to divine providence that following the desire freely expressed the disastrous misunderstandings have vanished."

After enumerating the measures which are to be presented for the consideration of the new Parliament, the speech declared that, although close relations exist with the country's allies, and in spite of the friendly ties with other foreign powers, which afford a guarantee of peace, provision must be made for the defensive power of the country, and therefore an extraordinary contingent of recruits must be supplied and equipped in accordance with the rule followed by the previous delegations.

The speech also announced that after the question of electoral reforms has been settled a new Parliament will be summoned.

TO STRENGTHEN LAW OF 1903.

Bill Amending Immigration Measures Called Up in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Mr. Dillingham, chairman of the committee on immigration, today called up in the Senate the bill amending the immigration laws. He said the measure is intended to strengthen the law of 1903, which is working admirably. He does not accept some of the popular theories concerning immigration, but holds to the belief that the influx of foreigners is regulated by the labor market—that in dull times the number is small, and in good times large, as for instance 1,026,000 in 1905, as compared with 229,000 in 1898. He also finds encouragement in the fact that over 60 per cent of the immigrants are between the ages of 14 and 44, or at the age when persons are least liable to become public charges. The Vermont Senator also is encouraged by the fact that many of the immigrants, especially those from Italy, return to their homes after spending the working season in the United States. All these facts should, he thought, go far to relieve apprehensions regarding the foreign invasion, and also go far to show the effectiveness of the present law, which he regards as a master piece of legislation. Some weak spots have been found in the law, he said, and it is the purpose of the pending bill to strengthen them. It is, he added, intended to keep out a still larger number of the defective classes.

Senator Latimer suggested the advisability of a provision requiring the steamship companies to deposit twice the amount of the passage of immigrants to pay the return passage of those rejected, but Senator Dillingham did not believe such a drastic measure necessary.

SUM OF $60,000 APPROPRIATED.

To Prevent Federal Courts From Adjourning for Lack of Funds.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—To meet an imperative emergency that the federal courts may not be obliged to adjourn for the lack of funds, the House committee on appropriations today reported an urgent deficiency bill making available for immediate use $60,000 of the unexpended appropriation of 1905 for the payment of witnesses and jurors.

SENATOR BURTON CASE.

To be Investigated by the Committee on Elections.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—The Senate today directed the committee on privileges and elections to investigate the effects of yesterday's decision by the Supreme Court in the case of Senator Burton. The resolution was offered by Senator Hale and read as follows:

"Resolved, That the committee on privileges and elections be directed to examine into the legal effect of the late decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Joseph R. Burton, a Senator from Kansas, and as soon as may be to report their recommendations as to what action, if any, shall be taken by the Senate."

The resolution was adopted without debate.

REGARDING DENATURED ALCOHOL.

Secretary Shaw and Commissioner of Internal Revenue Testify.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Secretary Shaw and Commissioner of Internal Revenue Yerkes testified before the Senate committee on finance today in regard to the denatured alcohol bill. The Treasury Department favors a small tax on alcohol denaturalized, and the adoption of regulations that would insure the denaturalization of all the alcohol manufactured for that purpose. This is a difficult subject to deal with, and the committee will meet tomorrow and take up the bill line by line in order to consider amendments.

Willie Hoppe Defeated.

MONTREAL, May 22.—In a 500 point match here last night, Louis Cure defeated Will. Hoppe. With five points to run, Hoppe drew the attention of the referee to a foul which neither the referee nor Cure was able to see, owing to their positions. Cure ran out with 11. Cure's average was 17-86 and his high run 62. Hoppe had an average of 17-69 and his best run was 121.

LATEST NAVAL NEWS.

Movements of Vessels Reported to the Department Today.

(Special despatch to the News.)

WASHINGTON, May 22.—The following orders to officers were issued by the Navy Department today:

Commander E. F. Qualtrough, ordered to duty in attendance on the summer conference of officers at the Naval War College, Newport.

Commander W. McLean, detached from the bureau of ordnance and ordered to duty in attendance on the summer conference of officers at the Naval War College, Newport.

Assistant Surgeon A. H. Allen, ordered to the naval hospital, Philadelphia.

Pay Inspector F. T. Arms, detached from the navy pay office, Washington, and ordered home and to wait orders.

The following movements of naval vessels were reported today to the department:

Sailed—Nashville, from San Juan for Santo Domingo City; Chicago, from Scrasaulite for Portland; Newark, from Norfolk for Annapolis; Columbia, from League Island for Guantanamo.

Arrived—Wolverine at Erie, Duluque at Barahona, Stewart, Truxtun and Worden, at North river; Lawrence at the New York navy yard, Marblehead at Ampala.

REVOLUTIONISTS GATHERING.

State and Navy Departments Confer Over Dominican Situation.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Disquieting advices received by the State Department relative to revolutionary movements in the West Indies, directed against the administration of President Caceres of Santo Domingo, led to a conference today between officials of the State and Navy departments. Details of these movements are vague, but indicate that ex-President Morales is not at or near St. Thomas, and is making a determined effort to expel Caceres and regain the presidency of Santo Domingo.

Some of the leaders who were instrumental in ejecting Morales from office are reported to be now on his side, and many rumors have been received of purchases of arms and gathering of revolutionists in ports adjacent to Santo Domingo.

The Navy Department has forwarded to Commander Southerland on the Yankee such information as it has received, leaving him full discretion to deal with the situation and enforce American neutrality laws.

It appears that ex-President Jiminez has recently addressed several letters to Secretary Root, urging the justice of permitting him and his party to make an unimpeded effort to regain control of the Dominican government. At last accounts he was reported to be in Porto Rico, and his movements are being closely watched by the authorities there, at the instance of the State Department.

The advices to the State Department came from the acting governor of Porto Rico, and are to the effect that munitions of war intended for an expedition directed against San Domingo are being shipped from St. Thomas to a place called Lajahon, in Hayti, on the coast, and very near the Dominican boundary. The leaders of this expedition are expected to embark from Porto Rico about the middle of next week.

BOARDS OF HEALTH MEET.

Plans Formulated to Sanitize Railroad Coaches and Sleepers.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—The dangers of infection incident to travel on railroads and the proper methods of sanitation, occupied the attention of the national conference of state and provincial boards of health at today's meeting.

The conference appointed a committee of three to confer with a committee of railroad sanitary officers, with the view of formulating a plan more effectually to sanitize railroad coaches and sleepers. The committee was instructed to report at the next conference.

TO SUBMIT FURTHER REPORTS.

Garfield Continuing Investigations of the Oil Industry.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Commissioner of Corporations James R. Garfield stated today that he would submit to the President further information on the result of his investigation of the oil industry. The report recently submitted to Congress covered the question of transportation and freight rates, and Mr. Garfield is now engaged in preparing reports of the producing and refining of oil, the control of pipe lines, organization, foreign trade and conditions and competitive methods. The data for the first four has practically all been received, and the report on competitive methods is well under way. Mr. Garfield said he did not believe he would be able to submit to the President any of these reports before the adjournment of Congress.

SECURED REBATES FOR SHIPPERS

Government Ready for Case of Freight Broker of New York.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 22.—The government today in the United States district court announced that it was ready for trial in the rebate case of George L. Thomas, a freight broker of New York city, and his chief clerk, E. C. Taggart, under indictment for alleged conspiracy in securing rebates for shippers, and of George H. Crosby, former assistant freight traffic manager of the Burlington railway, charged with conspiracy in giving rebates. These men were indicted in December last with other railway and packing house officials whose trials have been set for a later date.

RESIGNATION ACCEPTED.

Lieutenant of Artillery Withdraws from Service to Enter Business.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—The President has accepted the resignation of Second Lieutenant Charles D. Daly, of the artillery corps, recently stationed at Fort Totten, N. Y., to take effect at once. Lieutenant Daly is best known to fame as the star quarterback of the Harvard football team in 1899 and 1900.

His reason for leaving the army after less than a full year's service was to enable him to accept a lucrative offer to engage in private business pursuits.

TO WORK ON THE LAND QUESTION.

Parliament Preparing for Coming Struggle.

Attention of All Russia Riveted on This Subject.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 22.—Parliament will probably not meet again until May 25, today being the fete day of St. Nicholas, the Miracle Worker, and May 24 being Ascension day, another great holiday. The interim will be occupied by the committee in examining the credentials and elections of members and in preparation for the coming struggle over the measures for the solution of the agrarian question. The attention of the country and of Parliament is now riveted on this problem, all sides recognizing that the manner in which it is solved will largely determine the future course of events. The Liberal papers, which yesterday clamored for an open war of retaliation owing to the emperor's refusal to receive personally the deputation appointed by the house, after sober reflection commend the course of Parliament in overlooking the point of etiquette in favor of the serious work which the country expects it to accomplish.

The Constitutional Democrats' agrarian project will be attacked both by the Right and the Left. The radical workmen and peasant group, which now numbers over 70 members, has decided to make a fight for the complete abolition of private ownership and the establishment of a system providing for the full nationalization of land. While the members of the Right have a conservative land program of their own the details have not yet been given out. They are trying hard to induce the group of 10 peasants who are holding about 1000 party affiliations to join them. They are proceeding on the theory that the Constitutional Democrats and extremists by excess will discredit themselves before the country and bring about a reaction which will give the conservatives a majority at the next election.

As evidence of its desire to work in harmony with the lower house, the Council of the Empire, or upper house, has decided not to press its own views of the great questions awaiting solution, but to await the initiative of the lower house.

TO DISCUSS EQUAL RIGHTS.

Jewish League Holds Conference in St. Petersburg.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 22.—The Jewish league for the realization of equal rights for their co-religionists is in session here. The attitude of their members in Parliament will be defined, and all questions relating to the Jews will be discussed. It is also proposed to make arrangements for holding a congress of all the semitic organizations of Russia.

TO INVESTIGATE THE CRIME.

Government Expresses Regret at Murder of Vice Consul Stuart.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 22.—In response to a formal request made by Ambassador Meyer of the foreign office here on the subject of the assassination of William H. Stuart, the American vice consul at Batoum, the ambassador has received from Foreign Minister Isvolsky a note written in his own hand, expressing the government's deep regret at the murder, and also stating that the viceroy of the Caucasus had been ordered to make the most rigid investigation of the crime and apprehend and punish the assassins.

Mr. Meyer applied for and received permission for the British consul at Batoum to represent American interests.

King Edward Holds Levee.

LONDON, May 22.—King Edward held a levee in the throne room of St. James' palace today. Many distinguished persons were present. Ambassador Whitelaw Reid, who was accompanied by all the staff of the American embassy, presented third secretary Grant Smith and Arthur Harmon, of New York.

ONE BATTLESHIP EACH YEAR.

That is the Naval Program of Senator Hale.

Representative Capron Approves of Pension Bills—When Lawyers Disagree.

(Washington correspondence of the News.)

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The "naval program" is a term used by those handling affairs connected with the navy to mean the increase of the navy by the building of new ships. "One good ship each year has become our settled policy as to the naval program," said Senator Hale, chairman of the committee. "We have a navy large enough, but by building one ship every year we will replace those which are becoming obsolete or useless from other causes." If it was not for Senator Hale the impression prevails that there would be an enlarged "naval program," as both officers of the navy and the administration favor larger increases. This view is also shared by the men in the House who handle the appropriation bill. Many Senators have the same view as Senator Hale, and so an understanding is reached as to what ought to be done in the way of new ships, and it is always adopted.

A group of members of the House were showing a disposition to joke Representative Capron of Rhode Island because of his rapid method of putting through pension bills. Capron has broken all past records, and as he gains experience he breaks his own records. He accepted the raillery of his friends with his usual good nature and then spoke seriously for a moment:

"I am glad to be an instrument in the passage of these bills. You gentlemen may not be aware of it, but the records show that 72 per cent of the beneficiaries of these pensions die within a year. The bills are mostly for men who have reached the last milestone and are nearly all helpless."

It is freely predicted by those who claim to know that the anti-pass amendment, which was inserted in the railroad rate bill after much trial and tribulation and at a great expense of time, will be lost in conference. The general impression among those who watched the adoption of the amendment was that it was really not anxiously desired by a majority of the Senators. In fact, it was pretty well loaded down with exceptions and made to look ridiculous. Just how serious the "pass evil" is was not developed, although the fat matters were that passes granted to federal officials was what seemed to be most objectionable.

Senator Perkins was talking about the personnel of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and about lawyers as members of it. He was interrupted by Senator Hale, who asked:

"Is not the present commission made up of all lawyers?"

"Well," replied Perkins, "I know some lawyers who are very excellent gentlemen and very able men and very honest men."

"So do I," said Hale.

"And," continued Perkins, "I would be willing to leave my case to them—for instance, to the Senator from Maine."

"I am not on the commission," responded Hale.

"No," said Perkins, "the Senator would not accept the appointment."

"There has been some talk about lawyers," went on Hale, "and I want to bring out from the Senator the fact, as I understand it to be, that the present commission is made up of all lawyers."

"Judging from our experience in the Senate," Perkins evasively but blandly remarked, "it is difficult for lawyers to agree, for I do not think any half dozen of them have agreed on any proposition we have had pending before us here."

The question naturally arises whether it is advantageous for a man to leave Washington when Congress is in session and go home to run a political campaign. The fate of two Senators who recently spent a great deal of time at home and both retired after a defeat, would indicate that it would be better to leave politics to their constituents. Possibly the result would not have been different if the Senators had remained at the national capital, but it is a fact, generally speaking, that more Senators are successful who remain here and leave the situation to take care of itself.

It has perhaps fallen to [illegible] to find out all there is in a subject. William Alden Smith of Michigan was closely questioning Chairman Overstreet about the postoffice bill.

"If the gentleman will keep quiet," said Overstreet, "and remember that he is an individual, [illegible] an individual."

"No, I am a Representative," broke in Smith.

"Yes," replied Overstreet, "but at the same time he is an individual."

"I am a Representative in this matter," insisted Smith.

"Well, I believe I can still prove that the gentleman is an individual," retorted Overstreet.

"I hope I have at least my individuality," remarked Smith.

The idea of William Alden Smith losing his individuality caused a roar of laughter because "individuality" stands out all over him.

THE PAGODA AT TRIPLICANE, MADRAS, VISITED BY THE PRINCE OF WALES.

The pagodas of India are great, finely carved, tower-like structures that rise over the gates to the temples. The name "pagoda" has been applied by Europeans and is not known in the orient. The famous pagoda at Madras, India, was visited by the Prince and Princess of Wales in their recent trip to the old Hindoo capital.

This Morning's News.

BOY SAVES 300 MEN.

Goes Down Into Burning Mine at Peril of His Life.

PITTSBURG, May 21.—By the heroism of a little trapper boy 300 workers in the Hazel Kirke mine, No. [illegible], of the Pittsburg & Westmoreland Coal Company, at Washington, were today saved from certain death in fires that are momentarily threatening to spread to the air shaft and fan into the mine.

The fire originated in the buildings at the mouth of the shaft and were soon in full control, menacing both the cage and air shafts and threatening to cut off all possible escape from the depths below. The only hope for the imprisoned men was in a warning of escape before the fire reached the shafts, but not a man of the scores who had rushed to the scene would volunteer to go into the mine and risk his own life to save hundreds of others. As grown men stood with blanched faces appalled at the awful fate which menaced their comrades a little boy, whose position is the least important in the mine and whose pay is but a few cents a day, stepped forward, and, without a word, started over the air shaft, where a narrow winding stairway made an entrance to the mine levels possible.

No one knew the lad's name, and no one cared. Many would have interested him, but he would not be deterred, and the men who had not dared rushed to fight off the flames for a few precious minutes. Water was brought in buckets, and, as if to compensate for their hesitancy in accepting the rescue of their fellows, the men fought the advancing flames with fury.

Hardly had the boy disappeared down the rickety stairway when the underground workers, warned of their peril by his shouts, began to tear from the shaft to open air and safety. More than half were still below when the fire reached the cage shaft, within a few yards of which it had started, and began to lick at the timbers.

With the danger of charred and burning wood falling into the mine and igniting the coal added to the other perils, more buckets were rushed to the scene on a special train from Monongahela, a short distance away.

Meanwhile the flames were kept from the air shaft until the last of the miners, and with them the little hero, with clothes smouldering and hair and eyebrows singed, were in safety.

TROLLEY STRIKE AVERTED.

Boston Companies Reach Agreement with Employes.

BOSTON, May 21.—"Matters adjusted to our mutual satisfaction" was the substance of a statement made by President Sullivan of the Boston & Northern and Old Colony street railway companies late tonight at the conclusion of a conference with motormen and conductors employed on the two systems relative to a change in the wage scale.

Today's conference was the third which has been held to discuss the new working schedule proposed by the unions, to which President Sullivan declined to agree when first presented.

Both parties to the conference emphatically decided not to make known at present the terms of the adjustment. President Sullivan announced that the meeting had been harmonious and that both sides had shown a desire to effect a compromise.

FORTY YEARS IN PRISON.

"Masonic" Burglar Given Practically Life Sentence.

NEW YORK, May 21.—Practically a life sentence for burglary was imposed by Judge Crane in Brooklyn today upon William S. Metelski, the so-called Masonic burglar, when he was ordered to serve 40 years at hard labor in Sing Sing prison. Metelski and his wife both fainted in court when sentence was pronounced, and he injured himself in falling, while his wife became hysterical when revived. Metelski was called the Masonic burglar by returning some property he was in the act of stealing from a member of the Masons. He had served five years in the Elmira reformatory. He is 27 years of age. Under the law a sentence for life might have been imposed.

TAMENESS OF SOUTH AFRICAN BIRDS.

(Country Life.)

Birds are said to be much more tame and confiding in South Africa than they are at home, probably because there they are much less molested.

The cape swallow often builds in the living room of the upcountry Boer, fastening its nest to some part of the roof timber. The Boer, whose house is usually haunted by a plague of flies, not only tolerates the swallows, but encourages them. The swallows, on their part, wage constant warfare upon the swarms of flies and flit constantly in and out, hawking about the chamber with a perfect fearlessness quite delightful to see.

Among other South African birds which manifest this wonderful tameness is the capetail wagtail, which not only penetrates the living room in search of flies, but will pick them from the old Boer's velschoens as he sits on his stoep and perch about his chair.

TO RECOMMEND DISAGREEMENT.

Decision of House Committee in Regard to Rate Bill.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The railroad rate bill was considered for three hours tonight by the House committee on interstate and foreign commerce, and the decision was reached to recommend disagreement to all the Senate amendments and to send the measure to conference. The committee will not ask that any instructions be given to the House conferees.

There was no disposition to criticise the amendment conferring jurisdiction on the courts to review orders made by the Interstate Commerce Commission, for in the House committee as well as in the Senate many members contended that the bill as it was passed by the House gave that authority to the courts. This amendment and others, which collectively are known as the Allison compromise, undoubtedly will be agreed to by the House conferees.

The amendment which gave the House committee the greatest concern tonight was that making pipe lines common carriers, which the committee thought inconsistent with the amendment prohibiting common carriers from producing commodities carried by it.

Formal action was not taken on any of the amendments, and therefore the House conferees probably will be left free to exercise their best judgment.

HAIR NATURALLY ABUNDANT.

When It Is Free of Dandruff, It Grows Luxuriantly.

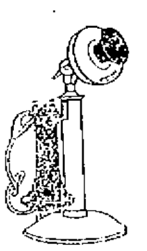

Hair preparations and dandruff cures as a rule, are sticky or irritating affairs that do no earthly good. Hair, when no diseased, grows naturally, luxuriantly. Dandruff is the cause of nine-tenths of all hair trouble, and dandruff is caused by a germ. The only way to cure dandruff is to kill the germ; and, so far, the only hair preparation that will positively destroy the germ is Newbro's Herpicide—absolutely harmless, free from grease, sediment, dye matter or dangerous drugs. It allays itching instantly; makes hair glossy and soft as silk. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. HERBERT SPENCER AT HOME.

Spent Quarter of Life in Boarding Houses—Yearned For Home at Age of 69—Believed in System.

We know now how Herbert Spencer came to write his great system of philosophy. For 23 years he lived in boarding houses. He stood it for 23 years; and then, naturally, at the early age of 69, he yearned for a happy home and a chance to write in peace of his past. He found the home and he wrote his philosophy, and so the world is richer for those London boarding houses. Peace to their ashes!

The two devoted ladies who for eight years undertook his housekeeping, have now in their turn got out a book on the subject of "Home Life with Herbert Spencer," in uniform binding with "Denizens of the Jungle" and "My Fortnight with a Gorilla."

They had worries, those two ladies, and lost they have more, they have signed their book anonymously as "The Two." Under the shadowy and saving cover of this pretty pseudonym, they have recovered from their shock, have at last taken the public into their confidence and now recount what a terrible ordeal it was to live with Herbert Spencer.

The lines on which Herbert founded this establishment were—he paid the rent and taxes and the servants' wages, and reserved for himself three rooms which he furnished; the remainder of the house was given up to the two ladies, who had to board the servants as well as themselves, and undertake all management. Needless to say, the most difficult feature of their task was the management of Herbert Spencer.

System, he insisted, should pervade his establishment like a delightful and refreshing aroma. The two housekeepers found his ways and the aroma disconcerting at first, but in time they got hardened to everything. Herbert would lecture them in his most serious and emphatic style on the folly of clothing an exposed part, such as the foot, more lightly than the rest of the body, and explain how thick his own socks were. Hearing one day that one of the ladies had washed her hair in a fireless room, he sent an order to her to proceed to the study, where he admonished her severely.

When trouble arose with one of the housemaids, he presided as judge in the study, heard the maid's statement fully, detailed her complaints to the two ladies, and after hearing what they had to say, sent for the housemaid again, and explained matters carefully and dispassionately to her.

Every morning at 11 o'clock he sent the London Times to the two ladies to read, with injunctions that it was afterwards to be lent to the servants. This was a gloomy hour for the servants. They had to read the thing, for Herbert sometimes catechised them on its contents.

Sometimes he went shopping with one or other of the ladies. On one Sally's arrival in the hall ready dressed for the drive to the Army and Navy Stores, he once remarked, "You haven't enough on," and insisted upon her wearing his old Inverness cloak over everything else. She nearly caught fire from spontaneous combustion.

The Herbert Spencer known to history would hardly have been the Herbert that he was if he had not had and he did have his principles for the management of his kitchen and larder. He always insisted upon a plentiful supply of meat for the "hanging"; and ordered it to be syringed with a solution of permanganate of potash to check decomposition. When away from home he would write the day before his return instructing the ladies to order in a leg of mutton, a loin of mutton, a neck of mutton, a sirloin of beef, and an oxtail, no matter though there was a good-sized sirloin in cut.

On one occasion there had hung in the cold-storage a joint which burst through all the bounds of permanganate of potash. There it hung and hung, for the great philosopher hated waste. It finally drove the cook to an interview with Mr. Spencer—which was equivalent to a hanging for herself. But desperation made her eloquent, and on her return an order was sent by the great man to the man servant. That trembling wretch was commanded to go up to his master in the study. A few minutes later the trusty servant was observed digging a deep hole in a flower-bed, after which that particular joint was seen no more.

PORTSMOUTH.

[Regular correspondence of The News.]

The King's Daughters and St. Mary's Guild will meet Thursday afternoon and evening with Mrs. Elbert A. Sisson, Gypson lane.

Mrs. B. Frank Borden and Mrs. Alonzo E. Borden attended the First District convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, held in Manton. Mrs. Alonzo E. Borden had been asked to repeat the paper on "Our Foreign-Born Neighbors" which she gave at the Third District convention, and consented to do so.

The Ladies' Social of the Christian Church will meet Thursday afternoon and evening with Mrs. Kate Bailey of Middletown.

Mrs. Frank Eddy of Swansea, her son Hiram and her daughter Ruth are guests of Mrs. Eddy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. Frank Borden, Sunset.

Mrs. Gardner of Newport is at Mrs. Charles Clarke's; Miss Babbitt has returned to Newport.

Mrs. Edwin Manchester has returned home.

Mrs. Emma Sampson is in Boston, visiting her sister, Mrs. Aaron V. Chevers.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowen of New York are visiting in this town.

Mr. Merle Holman, who is employed as bookkeeper in Central Village, Conn., recently spent a day with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Holman.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Curtis have begun housekeeping in Newport.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith and their son spent Sunday in Swansea, Mass., with Mr. Smith's uncle, Mr. Charles Smith, and family.

The stone crusher belonging to Mr. Alton Head, which was recently sent from Jamestown to Oakland Co. has been sent back, a sufficient quality of stone having been crushed for the sidewalk which is being graded and levelled, and the sides of which are to be either seeded or sodded before completion.

The surgeon has given permission to William W. Anthony to sit up a week, the bones of his leg being well knitted that the break is hardly discernible. His sprained ankle, however, is still quite troublesome.

The Oliphant Reading Club will meet with Mrs. William B. Anthony Thursday afternoon.

Thursday being Ascension day, there will be Holy Communion with address at St. Mary's Church, at 10 o'clock.

PORTSMOUTH MAN DEAD IN PROVIDENCE.

Officer Patrolman Ralph E. Clifford of Providence died suddenly yesterday Sunday night in a room at the Benefit House in that city. He was found dead in bed yesterday afternoon by Policeman Sheehan of the Central Station, who was notified by Mrs. Annie Connett that she was unable to arouse her lodger. Entrance to the room was gained through a window.

Mr. Clifford was born in South Portsmouth in 1864, and went to Providence in 1886, being appointed to the police force March 1, 1888. He traveled from various stations for a time and was subsequently assigned to day duty on the Federal Hill beat of the Fourth station, which includes the Italian quarter, where he served for a number of years.

During the time that Patrolman Clifford was traveling that beat, he became familiar with the Italian tongue and proved an efficient officer in that particular district, doing much to maintain peace among the somewhat turbulent class of people at that time. October 31, 1901, he was placed on the pension roll and retired on account of physical disability. A short time after he was retired he became a special officer attached to one of the theatres, and for some time had been connected with the Empire Theatre.

He went to the Bennett House about two weeks ago and took a room. Mr. Clifford was married, but for the past few weeks he and his wife had not been living together. The former officer was one of the tallest men who was ever on the Providence police force, measuring about 6 feet 1 inches. For some time his health had not been good and he was believed to have been suffering from Bright's disease, complicated with heart trouble. His death was not unexpected among his friends.

PERSONALS.

....The Vice President and Mrs. Fairbanks have returned to Washington from a visit to Birmingham, Ala., and will go to Indianapolis early in June, when Mrs. Fairbanks will make a number of short visits before establishing herself for the summer at one of the Northern resorts.

....Mrs. Roosevelt will remain in Washington until the last of the present month, and with the President will entertain at dinner Thursday evening. The children of the family, with governesses, nurses and household servants, and a large assortment of pets, will leave for Oyster Bay this week.

....Captain T. Bentley Mott, for many years American military attache at Paris, advocates a radical change in the American plan of training the army. With Aldershot as a model, Captain Mott advises concentrating large bodies of troops to give the general officers experience in handling brigades and divisions.

....Dr. Edward Wilmot Blyden, envoy of the Republic of Liberia to France, is one of the ablest colored men. He has rendered distinguished service to his race, both in Liberia and in the British West African colonies. The special object of his mission in France is connected with the delimitation of the frontiers between Liberia and French territory. French territory touches Liberia on two sides and, with British, nearly surrounds the republic.

....Viceroy Tuan Fang, one of the Chinese commissioners who recently came to this country to study American institutions, was deeply impressed with the vast amount of gold and silver stored in the vaults of the United States treasury in Washington, and asked permission to have his picture taken in the midst of so much wealth. In the photograph he is shown seated on a pile of sacks of silver dollars, each containing $1,000, and amounting in all to $100,000,000.

....Bishop Potter of New York preached Sunday at All Saints' Church, Garsdon, near Malmesbury, England, where it is proposed to restore the monument to Sir Lawrence Washington, an ancestor of George Washington. Rev. Mr. Collins of Detroit, Mich., and Rev. Mr. Hay, rector of All Saints', assisted at the service. Bishop Potter in his sermon drew a comparison between Napoleon, Wellington and Washington, and eulogized Washington, whose name, he said, was idolized in Europe and for whose memory it was intended to restore the memorial and perpetuate a great name and lineage.

DAILY NEWS PATTERNS

Modish Coat of Heavy Linen.

Linen coats will occupy a prominent place in the wardrobe of the smartly dressed woman this summer, and the illustration shows a charming model of this sort. It is three-quarter length, loose-fitting and void of trimming except a flat collar of pale blue linen. Many of these coats shown in the shops are elaborately embroidered down the front, which of course makes them quite expensive.

TWO OF THE OLD SPANISH MISSIONS AT SANTA FE.

Santa Fe, founded in 1605, is doubtless the oldest city in the United States and has many ancient churches. In 1617, when New Mexico had only forty-eight colonists and soldiers, eleven churches had been built by the missionaries and 14,000 natives had been baptized. San Miguel church, a plain adobe structure, was partly destroyed by Indians in 1680 and was restored in 1710.

EVENING.

[Ingram Crockett, in American Magazine.]

The half moon touched with golden light,
An orange glow on the margin of night,
The stilly song of the cricket heard,
And the whispering wings of the passing bird—
The smell of smoke from the upland blown,
And silent fields lying low and lone.

The laugh of a child from a wooded lane,
The last bright gleam of a window-pane,
And shadow weavers under the moon,
The bull-bats lost in the darkness soon,
A star on the crest of the purpling hill,
And its other self in the river still.

A melody born of days no more,
A ripple lisping along the shore,
A voice that speaks to me out of the gloom
Till the rose of my heart is again in bloom
And lo! in the darkness shining free
The window light where she waits for me.

FANCIES.

Scot—I wonder how the doctors pronounce appendicitis?

Mott—I believe they pronounce it dangerous.

Stranger (at Polecat Point)—Boy, can you tell me where old Farmer Corncrack lives?

Boy—He's dead!

Stranger—Dead! Why, I've come all the way from Boston to visit him!

Boy—He must have been expectin' you, I guess.—[Puck.

"Have you secured the portraits of those prominent persons who figured in that alleged kissing incident?" asked the editor.

"Yes," said his assistant; "but I don't think we'd better print them."

"Why not?"

"They tend to disprove the story."—[Chicago Tribune.

"Pa, what are halcyon days?"

"Sh-h-h," replied H. Peck, sr., as he looked around to assure himself that he and his son were alone; "they're the glorious summer days when your dear mamma is far, far away from the wicked, noisy city, enjoying freedom from household cares and getting the sweet, pure air she needs so much."—[Chicago Record-Herald.

On a recent Monday morning the pastor of a church in Virginia was the recipient of a basket of strawberries brought to him by a little girl of the parish.

"Thank you very much, my dear," said the minister. "These berries are as fine as any I've ever seen. I hope, however, that you did not gather them yesterday—the Sabbath."

"No, sir," replied the child. "I pulled 'em early this mornin', but they was a-growin' all day yesterday."—[Harper's Weekly.

TEN PAGES.

"IN ITS JUDGMENT."

These words in the Hepburn rate regulation bill came out before the Senate passed it. Therein was attained the victory of Senator Aldrich and such eminent lawyers as Spooner of Wisconsin, Knox of Pennsylvania, recently Attorney General, and Foraker of Ohio, after a struggle between the advocates of court review and its opponents for three months. The words were connected with the authorization of the Interstate Commerce Commission to fix rates. If the commission had power to fix rates that were reasonable in its judgment the courts would have no authority to consider the reasonableness of the rates fixed by the commission. It might review other aspects of the proceedings before the commission, but it could not inquire into the reasonableness of the rates.

Probably Congress had no constitutional authority to confer such power on the commission. Probably Congress has no more power to give a commission authority to fix railway rates than it has to give a commission authority to fix tariff rates that are reasonable "in its judgment." The cases are not quite identical, but the fact that the Senators struck out those words, although their retention was a part of the agreement between the supporters of Senator Aldrich and the supporters of the President, is probably due to a conviction that if the words were left in the courts would declare the law unconstitutional.

There are ample grounds for preferring the judgment of the court to that of the commission as to what is a reasonable rate. Under our form of government no man can have his property taken from him without "due process of law." That involves a hearing in court for which a hearing before a commission could not be substituted. The commission, being created to regulate the railways, would be far more likely to be unjust to them than the courts, which are not created to apply a single law to a single class of persons or corporations, but to do general justice to all persons under all laws. The courts have repeatedly reversed the commission. This explains why the persistent effort of the shippers who created this rate regulation agitation has been to increase the power of the courts and reduce that of the commission.

GRAFT AND TAXES.

When so much is heard about dishonesty and graft in the national government, and in state and municipal administrations one might well wonder how the country, the commonwealth and city survive such an onslaught upon the public treasuries, but they appear to flourish notwithstanding the drain they suffer from this source. There is no question that graft and dishonesty do prevail in official circles, and that they make some drain upon the public funds, but this is a rich country, and the states and cities have an abundance of wealth, so that the loss from this source is scarcely felt. Of course there is no way of knowing how large an amount is thus pilfered from the people, but the loss, small or great, is included in the taxes which are levied, and the people pay them without realizing, or indeed knowing, whether they are paying for legitimate or illegitimate expenses.

Of course this does not condone the evil against which press and pulpit, orator and private citizen, protest so often, and so long in these days, but it shows that after all the people do not suffer so severely as might be thought from this source. It is equally true, too, that if this drain upon the public funds was not made the people would have to pay less taxes and consequently would have more money for their private uses, but they do not suffer seriously in that way, and are scarcely conscious of the fact that their taxes are higher than there would be need of if graft and dishonesty did not exist in the public administration of affairs.

So much use is made of this word "graft" in these days that one might suppose that it was a new thing whereas it is but a new name for something that has existed and been recognized ever since government was organized. There have always been men with itching palms buried deep in the public treasuries and there always will be men of that stamp so long as human nature endures, and they will find the means of securing the illegal gain they seek when the attention of the people is diverted in other directions. Their opportunity comes when the people are indifferent and careless about public matters, and that opportunity comes often in every community in this country, in every state in the Union and in the national government. The watch-dogs of the treasuries are often idle, and then the parasites feed upon the public funds.

The fact that graft has always existed and probably always will is no excuse for those who practice it, or for those who permit it. There must always be war upon such a spirit and practice. The guardians of the people's money paid into the public treasuries in the form of taxes must ever be alert. The battle of good against evil must be maintained without cessation. Thus only can the spirit and practice of graft be kept within bounds. It is not sufficient to make spasmodic efforts to abolish the evil, in intermittent attacks upon it. The warfare must be long and steady, and even then the results will fall short of what is desired of the ideal state of honesty in government circles.

FALSE TEETH FOR ALL THE WORLD.

It is said that the food of the world is masticated by American-made false teeth. In other words, this country leads the world in the manufacture of machine-made molars and keeps millions of jaws busy all over the globe. America has assumed the first position in the commercial world in the making of many products which once were manufactured chiefly in other countries, but it is something of a revelation to be told that it stands at the head of the list in the furnishing of false teeth for the inhabitants of the earth. Perhaps this is no great distinction, and yet it is an evidence that the spirit of enterprise which is characteristic of the people of this land pervades every line of effort, and in almost all soon advances the country to the first rank.

It is said that if one cares to make sufficiently close investigation he can find American-made teeth in the mouths of men and women the world over, from South Africa to Japan and from the Arctic to the Antarctic. But this would be pushing the inquiry beyond the bounds of propriety, and it must be sufficient to accept the statements of the manufacturers as to the wide extent of territory over which their wares are shipped. And these statements are conclusive and furnish another evidence that we do not allow competition to discourage us, but simply do a little better than the best, and so make our way to the top of the ladder. We make the best goods, and then the market is forced to receive and dispose of them. We mean to be in the lead, even in such a matter as furnishing false teeth for the world.

WOMEN'S HATS IN CHURCH.

What shall the women do with their hats at church? They mustn't take them off, for their own comfort, but they mustn't wear them, because the men in the back part of the church—and the men are reputed to be backward about taking seats in church—wish to see the minister. Some Protestant Episcopal ministers have forbidden women to attend church without their hats or bonnets, on account of St. Paul's remark upon the propriety of women being covered in public, and the official board of a Methodist church in Franklin, Pa., has unanimously ordered the women to take their hats off and give people in the rear seats a chance to see. While the vote was unanimous it was cast by the single men only on the board, the married men were too experienced to vote for or against what women should wear. When these bachelor church officials get married they too will know more.

PROSPECTS FOR NEW STATES.

The statehood bill, which has lain dormant during the Senate discussion of the railway rate regulation is coming to the front again in Congress. The leaders expect that an agreement will soon be reached whereby statehood will be given to Oklahoma and Indian Territory as one state, and offered to Arizona and New Mexico on condition that a majority in each territory express at the polls their consent to such combination at the general election of next fall. All the minor points of difference between the Senate and House conferees have been settled, and this one important point is likely to be decided soon, by the Senate instructing its conferees to yield in favor of giving Arizona and New Mexico the opportunity to vote on the matter. It is expected that the people of these two territories will reject joint statehood on a popular vote.

Governor Cummins of Iowa is to send invitations to the governors of the other states to name five delegates each to attend a convention to be held at Des Moines for the purpose of devising some means of bringing about the election of United States Senators by direct vote. The invitation will be sent in compliance with a resolution passed by the General Assembly of Iowa. It is believed that the convention, which will be held in September, will solidify the demand for the election of Senators by direct vote and agree upon joint action that will render the desired change in the constitution of the United States inevitable.

Attorney General Moody will soon begin, in behalf of the United States government, proceedings against the Standard Oil Company, not only for alleged violation of the Elkins anti-rebate law but also for disregard of the Sherman anti-trust law, evidence having been obtained which, it is said, tends to show that the Standard has been maintaining a monopoly and restraining trade distinctly prohibited by the Sherman act.

A total of $26,348,231 is wanted for all expenses incidental to the construction of the Panama canal for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1907. If that amount is judiciously and economically expended, considerable work will have been done on the canal within the next 12 months.

The Supreme Council of the Royal Arcanum is standing by its guns, having yesterday re-elected its old officers and re-affirmed the assessment rates adopted a year ago.

The cool weather will keep back the flowers so that they will be in full bloom for Decoration day.

INGREDIENTS OF TEA.

For practical purposes, tea consists of two things—the first being tannic acid, also known as tannin, and the second being theine, also known as caffeine. Let us consider each of these. The tannin, or tannic acid, occurs in the tea leaf, as in so many other plants; it is less readily soluble than the theine, and is much less readily obtained from the Chinese leaf than from the Indian, the latter, together with the Singhalese, containing much more of this substance. Tannic acid has no attractions for the palate except in the case of people who like a little bitterness, and it has no action on the nervous system, none of it, indeed, being absorbed by the body. Its action upon the tissues with which it comes into immediate contact is wholly deleterious. I do not say that it is necessarily serious, but what action there is is wholly bad. Notably does it interfere with the digestibility of foodstuffs. Plainly, therefore, a chief concern in the production of the best beverage from tea should be reduction of the tannic acid to a minimum. This is to be accomplished, first, by using the leaf which contains least of it, and, secondly, by sharply limiting the length of the infusion. It has been clearly proved that practically all the theine that can be obtained from the leaf is obtained in the first three minutes, whereas the amount of tannin increases markedly, even between the twentieth and fortieth minutes.

In the opinion of not a few, the said tannin is largely responsible for the deleterious effects frequently attributed to the theine. This last is an invaluable ingredient of tea; it is the same substance as that which gives its value to coffee, but is present in less abundance in the tea leaf than in the coffee bean. It is a nervous stimulant of the purest kind, and belongs to an entirely different class from the pseudo-stimulants, such as alcohol. In some ways this is one of the most remarkable of all known drugs; it appears to be unique, in that it stimulates the functions of the cerebrum, the highest portion of the brain, without inducing any subsequent reaction that can be detected. It has no second stage of action comparable to that of alcohol and opium, and in cases of emergency it is capable of postponing sleep for hours, and, more than that, of maintaining the mental activity as in the daytime. I may confess that in past years I have systematically used caffeine for weeks on end for this purpose without any deleterious results; but this is quoted for illustration, not imitation.

Now, it is plain that, so far as the remote consequences of a cup of tea are considered, it is the theine or caffeine that we desire, and the tannin that we do not desire. The relative solubility of the two substances exactly suits our convenience. If it were necessary to extract all the tannin in order to get any theine there might be some excuse for the lady who likes her tea to have a little "body" in it, or for the servant girl who keeps her teapot on the hob all day. But the fact is that it is possible to obtain all the theine desired, while reducing the amount of tannin to a minimum. At present the public taste is thoroughly vitiated; no one who has given the matter a fair consideration, or who cares to admit any palatal delicacy at all, will question that the fine aroma of a cup of properly made Chinese tea is in a different category altogether from the sensations aroused by the concentrated solution of tannin, which is usually offered under the pseudonym, "a cup of tea." Which things are written without prejudice.

In order to make reasonably complete this brief account of the cup that cheers, I must add that it contains a small proportion of a volatile oil, which is of small physiological importance, but which contributes largely to the gustatory character of tea. The chief public delusion in this connection is that the sense of taste may be implicitly trusted. You think you are not getting your money's worth unless your senses are violently assailed. It is as if you judged the power of music in terms of the amplitude of the sound waves. The master's pianissimo chord has more potency than the sforzando of mediocrity.

GETS 88 CENTS AFTER 100 YEARS

S. W. Curtis, of the Garden City Sand Company, Chicago, has just received a check for 88 cents in payment of a share in a French "spoliation claim" more than one hundred years old. Curtis is an heir of one of the owners of the American brig William and George, and received the check from the administrator de bonis non of the estate of Chauncey Gleason, a merchant of Farmington, Conn. Gleason was part owner of the brig, which was captured by a French privateer. The claim had been pending for 20 years.

Providence Common Council Concurs in Park Project.

Annual Meeting of Baptist Social Union—Liability for Bridge Repairs.

The common council of Providence last night voted to concur with the board of aldermen in the passage of the resolution providing for an expenditure of $200,000 for park purposes, but not until after a long and a spirited discussion, during which it was brought out that but one member of the joint committee on parks had looked over the proposed park sites or given any study to the layout of the Shaw parkway. It also developed that the report upon which the council based its action was not read to at least one member of the committee on parks, and that he was not aware of its text until he heard it read upon the floor of the council chamber. A motion to refer the resolution back to the committee, that there might be given to the subject that consideration which its importance seemed to demand, was defeated by a vote of 27 noes to 9 ayes. The resolution was concurred in by a vote of 30 ayes to 6 noes.

At the annual meeting of the Rhode Island Baptist Social Union in Providence last evening, the election of officers and transaction of other business followed the usual dinner and addresses. The affair proved one of the most enjoyable in the history of the union and was one of the most largely attended. The meeting included a reception in the parlors from 6 to 7 o'clock, a banquet at 7, addresses and a musical program. The address of the evening was made by Rev. Allen A. Stockdale, pastor of Berkeley Temple, Boston, Mass., whose topic was, "Should the Corners of the Mouth Turn Up or Down?" Rev. George W. Quick, D. D., pastor of the Second Baptist Church, Newport, spoke on "The Progress of the Gospel." Secretary W. L. Clark made an annual report, in which he stated that there are 111 members, two of whom were elected last evening.

Presiding Justice Sweetland filed a rescript yesterday in the superior court, overruling the defendants' demurrers in the suits brought by Arthur Haley and Alice Haley against the town treasurers of both Johnston and North Providence. The suits are to cover damages resulting from an accident which happened on a bridge on the dividing line between the two towns, last August. The court in the rescript quotes the section from the General Laws which provides that bridges on lines between towns must be kept in repair at the expense of both towns adjoining. It is the opinion of the court that repairs are usually made by the towns on a bridge as a whole, and that both towns are liable for damages resulting from any defect in any part of the bridge. The demurrers were overruled.

The Meiklejohn Company of Pawtucket was issued a corporation charter yesterday for the manufacture, sale, importing and exporting of pianos, organs and other musical instruments. The incorporators are Andrew, William and James Meiklejohn and the capitalization is fixed at $50,000, divided into shares of $100 each. The company is also empowered to issue preferred stock to the extent of $50,000 in shares of the same denomination, paying eight per cent cumulative dividends semi-annually, and carrying no voting power. The scope of the charter extends to the machinery, supplies and implements entering into the manufacture of the company's products, the purchase and acquisition of patent rights, the business of warehousing in all its branches and the conducting of a commission business; also the manufacture and sale of athletic goods and supplies.

Honored by his former shipmates on battleship Oregon, R. C. Howard, who was at one time a fireman connected with the Central fire station in Providence, has received a gold-mounted sword and belt as a token of the esteem of the men with whom he was associated on the gallant man-of-war. Howard, after serving for a while on the Raleigh became chief machinist's mate in the engineering division of the Oregon. Subsequently he was transferred to the Wisconsin, being appointed warrant machinist on that vessel. As an indication that his services had been appreciated and that he was missed on board the ship, which was made famous by her record run from the Pacific ocean around to Cuba at the beginning of the Spanish war, his former mates in the engineer's force purchased the handsome sword and belt which were presented to him.

Arthur Garfield Fowler, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Fowler of Woonsocket, has been appointed assistant professor in the department of chemistry at the Worcester Polytechnic Institute at Worcester, Mass., and will commence his duties there next fall. Mr. Fowler is a student at Brown University and will graduate from that institution next month. He has been president and musical director of the University Glee Club and has been popular among the college students during his four years career. He has also participated in many of the debating contests which have been held. He was highly recommended to the authorities at the Worcester Institute.

John Morris, one of the oldest residents of the North End section, died at his home, 657 North Main street, on Sunday afternoon. Mr. Morris was a descendant of the Brown family, and a great grandson of Woodbury Morris, who owned the "Gaspee House," in which the famous plot to destroy the British privateer was evolved. Mr. Morris was born in the Morris homestead, at the corner of Rochambeau and Morris avenues, the latter thoroughfare having been named for his greatgrandfather. The date of his birth was April 13, 1828, and he was a son of William and Phebe Morris. He was educated in the Providence high school, being a member of the first class which was graduated therefrom in 1847, and at Brown University, where he was graduated with the class of 1850. For three years he taught school in North Providence and Cumberland, and in Rochester, N. Y., and in 1853 went into the real estate business in Providence, also following the occupation of a farmer on some of the land which he owned in the North End. Before the North End section became a part of the city, it was included in North Providence, and in the politics of the town Mr. Morris was quite actively interested. He was a member of the town council in 1865 and of the General Assembly as a representative from North Providence in 1866. He was president of the North Providence school committee during the following year. After the annexation of the territory in which he resided Mr. Morris was a member of the city council from 1875 to 1881, inclusive. About 20 years ago he retired from politics as well as from the active pursuit of any business.

EXPERIENCE OF WIRELESS OPERATOR.

[Galveston correspondence St. Louis Globe-Democrat.]

The wireless telegraph as a seismograph was forcefully demonstrated at the station here and E. H. Thurston, the operator, had a thrilling experience with the air currents recording the vibrations in the tuning wires 10 hours in advance of the first quake of the earth at San Francisco. On Tuesday night the sputtering and sparks of electricity in the station aroused the operator, who, believing some ship at sea or land station of the wireless system was calling the Galveston station, answered the summons. He signalled through the air currents repeatedly, but failed to get an intelligent response. The sputtering and sparks continued at intervals, and the wires acted as if possessed. He examined the station and every piece of the mechanism, but, failing to solve the mystery, remained on duty throughout the night. He signalled Denver and East St. Louis, 80 miles away, but they had not called, and shortly after midnight the instruments became so charged that Thurston had to abandon using the keys.

On Wednesday morning he heard of the earthquake, and knew the upheaval had affected the air currents and charged the wireless station. With this knowledge he remained on duty, and recorded the subsequent quakes on the California coast, even to the last reported tremble felt at Los Angeles on Thursday. By comparing the records at the station with the reports of the several quakes, it showed that the sensitive instruments anticipated the quakes by several hours. Scientists are now studying the discovery, with a view of putting it to practical use.

The experience of the operator on Tuesday night was one of terror with the mysteries of nature, and he was well nigh a nervous wreck before he discovered the cause of the instruments' wild actions on that fateful night. A report in detail is now being prepared for the benefit of science.

NEWPORT HOSPITAL (Legal Title).

Incorporated 1873. Private Institution.
This hospital has for thirty-two years kept its doors open to every case that could be cared for within its walls.
During the past ten years it has spent for the care of the suffering over $5,750 yearly more than has been received from them. For the last two years this amount has been $25,140 and $27,273 respectively.
It maintains a District Nursing Service covering the whole city.
It deserves and asks the liberal support of all those who are interested in caring for the sick poor or in any way relieving suffering humanity.
Donations and legacies for the daily wants are always needed and gratefully received.
A cordial invitation is extended to all interested to inspect the Hospital and its work.

PRICES A LITTLE HIGHER.

Netters Make a Good Showing With Mackerel, Beating the Seiners.

There is something in the fish line today, though not so much as on some days. The scup men are shipping two barrels each, and John Nagle is sending a carload of scup to North Truro, Mass., for cold storage, as Newport has no cold storage warehouse. The price of scup on the dock is half a dollar higher than yesterday. The price of mackerel is also higher than yesterday, the fishermen getting 19 and 20 cents for them on the dock.

There were some arrivals, and for the first time this season there the netters made a showing. Yesterday afternoon there were three netters in—the Magnolia with 250, the Betsy Ross with 220 and the Briganzy with 225 fish. Today six "draggers" arrived, the Albert D. Willard being high line, with 600 fish; the Rattler had 300 fish, the Bessie 100 and the others 100, 180 and 150. Three seiners came in—the Saladin with 50 barrels, the Alert, which was in Sunday, with 50 barrels, and the Emerald with 60 barrels.

There was some talk among the agents, who were having a sort of vacation, about organizing a baseball team, which can play without leaving the dock or losing sight of a mackerel catcher when she shows around the ... It is found that for the present the base ball team will not have a good chance to practice, and some sport is needed to pass away the time and keep up the excitement. More details are expected in a day or so.

BICYCLE AND THIEF LOCATED.

Sunday, May 6, Joseph Selviera took from the stable of Antoine Silvea in this city a bicycle belonging to the latter and disappeared. The police were put on the track of the man and the bicycle, and after two weeks' search have succeeded in locating them, but in different places. Selviera was found in Taunton, and was brought to Newport today and tomorrow morning will be taken before the police court on the charge of larceny. The bicycle has been located in Attleboro, where it was taken by Manuel Souza, with whom Selviera traded for Souza's wheel, using the missing wheel as his part of the bargain.

INSPECTING THE HIGHWAYS.

The committee on streets and highways took a drive about the city yesterday, to see some of the work which has been done and some places which require work. One of these is Bateman avenue, next to the old polo lot, which has just been accepted as a public highway. Some of the members were surprised at the condition of this road. At places it is not a road but a gully, and its condition is such that it is not safe to travel. There is a ledge at the top of the hill which makes through the road, and it was evident that to make the road passable and keep it so this ledge must be blasted and the hill reduced. City Engineer Lawton will prepare a plan for the lowering of the hill and the grading of the road.

The committee found Bellevue avenue looking like a billiard table in good condition. The work of the new steam rollers this spring was evidently well done, and it is a pleasure to drive over the roadway. The ... drive is also in fine condition, with the roadway smooth and in good order.

COURT PRIDE CELEBRATES TWENTIETH ANNIVERSARY.

The twentieth anniversary of the organization of Court Pride of the City, Foresters of America, was celebrated last evening in Music Hall, where a large number of local and visiting Foresters were gathered. The entertainment was arranged by a committee consisting of Messrs. Maurice Roche, Daniel A. Bowman and William H. Chadwick, and consisted of the initiation of new members, speechmaking, a social session and refreshments. Mr. Maurice Roche read an interesting historical sketch of Court Pride, and speeches were made by James Collins of Court Little John, of Fall River, George Dorsey of Court Anderson of Providence and Thomas Ryan, William H. Chadwick and Thomas Gough of the local court. During the social session recitations were given by Messrs. M. G. McAnaney and C. P. Burns, and songs were sung by Messrs. James A. Girr, Neil Callahan, C. J. Schultz, Jr., John H. Tozier, Daniel Bowman and John Murphy.

FUNERAL OF MRS. CORCORAN.

The funeral of Mrs. Daniel Corcoran took place this morning from St. Joseph's Church and was attended by a large gathering of friends, young and old, who wished to pay the last token of respect to one whom they had known so well. There were many handsome floral tributes. A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Father Smith, assisted by Fathers Degan and Cronan. The regular choir, assisted by Miss Girr and Messrs. Girr and Alfro, gave a special musical programme. The interment was in St. Columba's cemetery by carriage road. The bearers were Henry Butler, Captain P. Herrington, James Nolan, Stephen Ryan, John Green, Cornelius Callahan, D. J. Murphy and M. J. Murphy.

JAMESTOWN.

(Regular correspondence of the News.)

Mrs. Balch of Providence was in town today.

Servants arrived today to open the Pruyn cottage on Greene lane.

Mr. Beaton Wetherill of Philadelphia arrived today at his father's cottage on Bay View drive.

Yesterday afternoon ferryboat Narragansett left Commercial wharf, Newport, where she has been laid up during the winter, and came across the bay, tying up at the new dock being built here for an opposition ferry near the bathing Beach. She made the run in about 20 minutes. Today a gang of men is at work painting her.

Mr. and Mrs. Silas Carr of Providence have arrived at their cottage on Colonado avenue for the season.

PROPOSITION TO SELL THE NEW SHOREHAM.

A proposition to sell the $50,000 steamer New Shoreham to the highest bidder, as a partial means of extricating the town from financial difficulties, will be the particular bone of contention at the Block Island financial town meeting June 5. Complications have already arisen which threaten to result in an appeal to the courts before the meeting is held, and the prospects of another political clash are becoming good.

Another resolution which the opponents of the Champlin administration on the island will force to the front at the meeting is intended to prevent the town treasurer from paying any bills contracted on account of this steamer after the vote to sell it is passed. If the plan is successful this will prevent the operation of the steamer and tie up some $5,000 outstanding bills due parties in Providence, as well as $11,000 which Contractor McKie of Boston, her builder, still claims is coming to him. This claim at present is pending in the United States circuit court of appeals at Boston.

The resolution to sell the steamer provides for the appointment of a committee of five electors to advertise for bids, which are to be submitted under seal. It then authorizes the committee, in its discretion, to sell the steamer to the highest bidder, if deemed advisable for the best interests of the town. It further provides that the proceeds of the sale shall be deposited in some bank or trust company in the city of Providence, and there held, subject to the vote of a future town meeting. This gives the town treasurer no jurisdiction over the funds.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Lighthouse steamer Iris is at the city dock.

—Mr. Henry Savage is here from Newton, Mass.

—The thermometer this morning looked the same as yesterday; that is, the temperature was the same. There was, however, considerable difference in the feeling of the wind, which still blows from the southeast, and the day seems more like summer than did yesterday.

—The closing reception by Mr. and Mrs. John Dugan to their dancing classes attracted a fair-sized gathering at Odd Fellows' hall last evening. The hall was decorated for the occasion, red and blue being the prevailing colors. The Cunningham orchestra furnished music for the 16 dances on the program, and refreshments were served during the intermission.

OFFICIAL TRIAL DELAYED.

Condenser of Battleship Georgia to be Further Repaired.

ROCKLAND, Me., May 22.—Trouble with a condenser which developed after a preliminary trial spin to Monhegan today will cause a delay of at least two weeks in the builders' acceptance trial of battleship Georgia. The condenser acted badly on the run from Boston Saturday, and temporary repairs were made while the ship was at anchor in this harbor. The run today was for the purpose of a final test before the standardization test arranged for Thursday. The battleship made a good showing, duplicating an estimated speed of 18.5 knots an hour with ordinary coal. At the conclusion of the spin it was found that the condenser was in need of further repairs before it would be policy to have the official trial. The Georgia will proceed to Portland early tomorrow, in order that the necessary repairs may be made.

Lawson Horses Sold.

READVILLE, Mass., May 22.—Several horses owned by Thomas W. Lawson from his farm at Dreamwold were sold at public auction today. Dreamer of Dreamwold 2:14¼ was bought by W. R. Janvier of New York for $2,625. John R. Graham of East Corinth, Me., purchased the formerly well known trotter Ponce de Leon 2:13, for which Mr. Lawson paid $3,500 several years ago, for $475.

Bill Failed to Pass Over Guild's Veto.

BOSTON, May 22.—By a vote of 8 in favor to 137 opposed, the Massachusetts house of representatives today failed to pass over Governor Guild's veto the bill relative to the election of aldermen in the city of Boston. There was no discussion. The governor disapproved of the bill, which provided for the election by districts, on the ground that the minority voters of any district would be deprived of their expression of opinion.

MAY NOT DISPOSE OF ZION CITY.

Judge Landis to Preserve Estate Under His Own Order.

CHICAGO, May 22.—Judge Landis today issued an order restraining Wilbur G. Voliva and all of Voliva's attorneys and agents, from disposing of, or in any manner dissipating, the estate of Zion City. An injunction previously issued enjoining counsel of Voliva from attempting to secure the dissolution of an injunction in the state court which prevents Voliva from interfering with Dowie, was dissolved by the court. Judge Landis said that he preferred to preserve the estate under his own order.

An order declaring Dowie individually to be insolvent was entered by the court, but it will not become effective until tomorrow, because some of the creditors desire to contest the insolvency of Dowie. Judge Landis said that the agents who had been appointed by him for the purpose of examining into the condition of affairs at Zion City, had reported to him that the Zion City industries can make money, that there has been no misappropriation of funds, and that, under proper management, the estate can be made to pay one hundred cents on the dollar.

TO COMMUTE TUCKER SENTENCE

Petition Signed by 115,555 Names Sent to Governor Guild.

BOSTON, May 22.—Names to the number of 115,555 are appended to a petition which was sent to Governor Guild today, asking him to commute to life imprisonment the sentence of death imposed upon Charles L. Tucker for the murder of Mabel Page at Weston in March, 1904. Of the signers 80,860 are men and 35,695 women. An express wagon was necessary to transport the petition to the state house. It was encased in a large box. It stretched out in one piece it would measure a mile in length. Many thousands of names from outside the state have been received by Tucker's counsel, Vahey, Innes & Mansfield, but they are not included in the count.

Governor Guild left the state house early today, and the memorial will not be considered by him until after Judges Sheldon and Sherman of the superior court have passed upon the new evidence which Tucker's attorneys say they have discovered, and which they claim will have an important effect upon the case. This evidence includes the declaration of Medical Examiner Francis Harris that his previous testimony that the knife found on Tucker could have caused the wounds on Mabel Page's body was incorrect, and that he is now convinced that a double-edged knife and not the single-edged Tucker weapon made the fatal wounds. The petition was forwarded today, in order that the governor and council may have an opportunity to see the character of the names appended. Any additional names received up to Monday will be added to the petition by consent of the governor.

TO RESTRAIN MACHINISTS.

Companies Petition for Injunction to Prevent Interference With Business.

BOSTON, May 22.—A temporary injunction restraining Machinists' Unions numbers 471 and 604 of Lynn from interfering with the business of employes of the Essex Machinery Company and the W. J. Young Machinery Company of Lynn, was ordered issued today by Justice Fessenden of the superior court. The machinists affected are on strike. The injunction was petitioned for by the companies on the ground that the unionists interfered with the hiring of non-union help. An order of notice was issued in the case which is returnable on June 11.

BOOKS EXAMINED AT LENGTH.

Treasurer of Ubero Company on Witness Stand in Borges Trial.

BOSTON, May 22.—With the intention of showing that the defendant did not appear in any of the alleged questionable transactions, the books of the Ubero Plantation Company were examined at length in court today by counsel for Ferdinand E. Borges, who is on trial for larceny. To this end Charles F. Richards, treasurer of the Ubero company, was placed on the stand and cross-examined by Lawyer Baker, representing Borges.

Over two hours were consumed in an examination of the checks issued by the Boston Ubero Company, made payable to the La Purla Plantation Company, the object of the defense being to show that hundreds of thousands of dollars were spent in legitimate development of the properties, and that W. D. Owen, who is also under indictment, not Borges, was responsible for the expenditures.

REPUBLIC COMPANY LEAVES OHIO

Declared to be Controlled by Standard Oil.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 22.—The Republic Oil Company, a New York corporation with headquarters at Cleveland, today notified Secretary of State Laylin that it withdraws from Ohio, giving as a reason that it has disposed of all of its Ohio holdings. The Republic company is declared to be controlled by the Standard Oil Company, and the notification has created a sensation at the state house.

SUMMER COTTAGES BURNED.

Dangerous Fire Checked by Prompt Service of Department.

HULL, Mass., May 22.—A dangerous fire broke out among the summer cottages at Allerton this afternoon, but it was checked by the prompt service of the Hull fire department, aided by the cottagers who used their garden hose effectively. The summer residence of E. B. Holmes of Brookline was burned to the ground, and it was reported after the fire that a maid employed at the house lost her life in the flames. Two servants, sisters, were in the house when the fire broke out and one of them could not be located afterwards. Her name was not known. The flames communicated to as many as 20 near-by houses, but none of these was destroyed. The store of C. E. West also caught fire but suffered only a slight damage. The loss upon the Holmes house is $5,000. The damage sustained by the other cottages will not exceed $1,000, it was believed.

Ogden Business Houses Burned.

OGDEN, Utah, May 22.—A fire that started early today, in the house occupied by the Burton Implement Company, Twenty-third street and Washington avenue, destroyed half a block of business houses in Washington avenue, entailing a loss of $250,000, about half insured.

To the Presiding Officers of All Social and Fraternal Societies of the City.

GREETING:

The Committee on Carnival Parade would respectfully ask you to send two delegates to attend a meeting of the committee to be held Friday evening, May 25, at 8 o'clock, in the Builders and Merchants' Hall.

The committee asks you personally to attend as one of the delegates so that you may know just what it is proposed to do and be in a position to inform your organization fully upon the subject when it comes before them for official action.

The committee wishes a full concensus of opinion on the matter. Whether your organization intends to participate or not has nothing to do with this meeting. All we want is your opinion and your presence to personally express it. The success of the carnival parade depends a great deal on prompt action.

Library Trustees of San Francisco Send Request to Other Cities.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 22.—H. H. Hale, chairman of the library committee, yesterday submitted to the general committee on reconstruction a report on the condition of the public library. Out of 166,341 volumes in the public library and its branches, there were only 23,000 accounted for after the fire.

The library trustees have written to other libraries throughout the United States, asking them what duplicates, if any, they have in the way of books, and requesting that a memorandum of such books be forwarded to San Francisco, with the idea of replenishing some of the rare books which San Francisco had in her public library. There are only two library buildings of any consequence left in the city—the Mechanics branch, damaged by earthquake to the extent of about $2,000, and the Fillmore branch.

MORE THAN 100 KILLED.

Employes and Patients at Agnews Hospital During Earthquake.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 22.—Besides the scores of employes and patients injured in the collapsing of the Agnews state hospital on the morning of the earthquake, there were 108 killed. After considerable research a definite list for the first time has been completed. The list shows that 11 employes and 97 patients were killed amid the falling brick and huge timbers, also those who died later of their injuries. The complete list of employes killed, reported by Medical Superintendent Leonard Stocking, is as follows: Officers and employes: Dr. E. A. Kelly, H. A. Braden, Miss A. Leete, John Lynch, Miss E. M. Holmes, Miss L. Barnett, Dr. L. A. Dell, Mrs. A. Theline, Mrs. R. Walker, E. H. Cranson, Miss M. Fennell.

LARGE NUMBER OF DEPOSITORS.

Expected Run on San Francisco Banks Did Not Materialize.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 22.—The anticipated run on the banks yesterday did not materialize. When the commercial banks opened for their down-town quarters, they did so expecting a rush on the part of depositors, and were fully prepared to meet it. Instead of heavy demands for payments, there was a much larger stream of deposits, and each receiving teller was far busier than the paying teller.

VISITS CHINESE REFUGEE CAMPS

Sir Chentung Satisfied That His People are Well Cared For.

OAKLAND, Cal., May 22.—Sir Chentung Liang Cheng, Chinese minister to the United States, after a visit in company with Dr. Edward Devine to the different Chinese refugee camps, yesterday, said:

"I am satisfied that our people are well treated by the relief committees. I was pleased to learn from personal observation that the lot of the Chinese refugees is no harder than that of the white people, and that the relief organizations are treating all the deserving needy alike irrespective of nationality."

The minister will return to Washington next Friday.

FOUND NO CHILDREN.

Chicago Census Takers in the Fashionable Part of the City.

CHICAGO, May 22.—Census-takers for the school board assigned to Lake Shore Drive and Kenwood precincts gave up their positions yesterday. So did those who had walked all day along Calumet, Prairie and Michigan avenues, ringing door bells and trying to locate minors. Forty enumerators handed their resignations to Secretary Larson, after they had spent a day scouring the "race suicide" districts in the effort to find a dinner's worth of children. The census-takers are paid at the rate of one cent a name for all children located.

Every enumerator wanted to be assigned to the Ghetto, and 40 of those who were given fashionable precincts gave up the work as bad and unprofitable. Fifteen enumerators who had been assigned to the fashionable wards unexpired their brief terms of incumbency; a half dozen found themselves suddenly overcome by illness; one had to go home and bed after the baby, and several were discharged for incompetency.

At a late hour, it was reported that all the enumerators who had been assigned to the ghetto were still at work. So were those who had been sent into the stock yards district and into the communities around the settlement houses.

CONCEALED UNOFFICIAL FEES.

Many Consuls Lose Money by Having Lump Salaries.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—One of the unexpected results of the consular reorganization now being placed in operation is the discontinuance of some consular officers who have been receiving the actual amount of the unofficial fees of their offices. The practice was not dishonest in the sense, for the consuls are in many cases permitted to retain all such fees, but for the sake of the records of the department and in order to enable the officials to know the state of business of the consulates it was required that all such fees should be accounted for.

Some consuls feared that to publish the amount of such fees they received would be to make their offices too attractive to other seekers, so they failed to make the full returns. Their punishment came when Congress passed the reorganization act on the basis of substitution of lump salaries for the combined salary and fee system of compensation. There was no intention of reducing the compensation of many of the consuls, but it has naturally followed that the consuls who failed to report their full fees have suffered a substantial reduction.

SAWED BARS OF CELL.

Prisoner on Trial for Grand Larceny Makes His Escape.

ELMIRA, N. Y., May 22.—Dr. George Magee, alias Dr. George Kurtz, who was to have been placed on trial here today for grand larceny in having secured a $150 diamond ring and $500 in money from Mrs. George M. Sayre of Horseheads, while posing as a clairvoyant, sawed five bars in his cell in the city hall basement and escaped during the night. Magee was confined in the city hall cells during the rebuilding of the county jail. He is said to have visited nearly every large city in the country.

BUSINESS BLOCKS BURNED.

Destroyed by Fire Which Raged Several Hours in Utica.

UTICA, N. Y., May 22.—Fire which broke out in Oneonta at 5:30 this morning, and was not controlled until 8 o'clock, destroyed two business buildings, one of which included the Wilber Bank and the Delaware & Hudson railroad despatcher's office. The contents of the bank vault are believed to be unharmed. The blocks destroyed are the Wilber block, a three-story building which contained besides the two tenants mentioned, a dining apartment, and the Wilcox block, which contained the city bakery, hats cleaning repository and flats. The flames pulled down one of the fire department houses to stop the progress of the flames. Help was called from Cooperstown and other places. Two firemen were injured by an explosion of gas.

SEVERAL MEETINGS HELD.

In Connection With Anniversary Week of Unitarians.

BOSTON, May 22.—Several meetings were held today in connection with the annual anniversary week of the Unitarians. The morning service at Kings chapel, in commemoration of the ministers of the Unitarian fellowship who died during the year, when an address was given by Rev. Seth C. Beach of Wayland, was followed by the annual business session of the National Alliance of the South Congregational Church. Annual reports were received and there was a discussion of "How Does an Alliance Strengthen a Church?" At the Arlington street church chapel was held a meeting of the Berry street conference, open to clergymen only, with an address by Rev. Merle St. C. Wright of New York. The annual business meeting of the American Unitarian Association was arranged for the afternoon.

STRIKE WAS UNJUSTIFIED.

Decision of Arbitrator of New York Carpenters and Employers.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Supreme Court Justice William J. Gaynor of Brooklyn yesterday submitted his decision as arbitrator of the differences between the Master Carpenters' Association and the Joint district council of Greater New York, which two weeks ago resulted in a strike of the carpenters in the borough of Brooklyn. He finds that the action of the strikers was unjustified, being in violation of their written agreement. He holds that the present scale of wages must remain in force until July 1, which was the date fixed for the increase of wages in all the boroughs.

ACTION OF HEART AFFECTS A WATCH.

[Pittsburg Gazette.]

Does your watch persist in going wrong, running either too fast or too slow? If so, look out. There is something the matter with the watch or with the watchmaker who tries to keep it in order for you, or with yourself.

Nobody would ever think that something the matter with him would cause something to be the matter with the watch, but a watchmaker is the cause of much uneasiness in an East End family, and all because he insists that he does his best with a certain watch, and that the reason it does not keep good time is because the man who carries it must have an irregular heart beat.

It came about in this wise. The head of the family has a gold watch that cost him $200 10 years ago. He has carried it ever since, but a year ago it began to act queerly. For some days it lost time, and then it began to gain time; again it would gain time mysteriously and then strangely lost a minute or two a day. It had been to the watch repairer's three times in 12 months, and was still acting irregularly a week ago, when the man's wife took it to the watchmaker.

"I think I know what is the matter with this watch," said the craftsman; "I don't believe that your husband's heart beats regularly. Now, don't get alarmed. It is not necessarily disease. He may be just one of those men who can't have a watch that keeps good time, simply because of their irregular heart beats.

"You see, a watch has a regular rhythmic movement," said the watchmaker. "It is carried close to the human heart, which ought to have a regular rhythmic movement, too. Now, while the watch is beating away the heart is beating also. If its pulsations occur regularly, punctuating the rhythm of the watch at specific intervals, the rhythm of the watch movement is undisturbed; but let the heart palpitations occur irregularly, now pulsating with the tick of the watch, again stopping discordantly in between the ticks, the watch is bound to be affected. Leave this watch here and let your husband carry your watch, which, we know, keeps regular time. Let him wear it a month and see if it is not right."

So the woman handed her husband her watch to note the result. She wanted him to consult a specialist immediately upon her return from the watchmaker, but he compromised by agreeing to try the test suggested by the watch man.

The best "brain food" is the food that keeps your veins and arteries fullest of red corpuscles.

You think with your blood.

Mental activity draws the vital fluid to the brain, and your mental ability depends upon the quantity and quality of it.

Apitezo

is a real "brain food" because it is a perfect body food—it produces an abundance of rich, red blood because it contains a proper proportion of every needed food element.

And it supplies the system with a natural tonic in the form of energy-creating courage, giving vegetable iron.

Apitezo in substance is a perfect food, better for you than beef or eggs. In form it is a crisp, delicious cereal that will do good and taste good to everyone from baby to grandpa. Serve with milk or cream as preferred.

Apitezo Biscuits, 15c the package. Apitezo Grains, 10c the package.

Canary Birds Imported by the Hundred Thousands.

Sweetest and Most Satisfactory Songsters Come from the Hartz Mountains in Germany.

[Washington Star.]

Picking his way through the thoroughfares of lower Manhattan Island, one damp day, a stranger was attracted by two oddly loaded trucks, which had been backed up against the curb on Greenwich street near Cortlandt, under the roaring elevated railroad.

It was plain to see that whatever the commodity with which the trucks were laden, it was not very heavy, for the loads were piled up eight or 10 feet high. That they were valuable and perishable was evident from the fact that they were carefully, almost fussily, covered with tarpaulin. As the stranger approached, men came hustling out of the store in front of which the trucks were standing and began to strip the tarpaulins off the loads, disclosing their nature.

It amazed the stranger vastly, for the great trucks were laden with canary birds, in little wooden cages, crated, the crates being piled so that the cages stood tier on tier, a really impressive array.

"Them two trucks," said one of the men who was working at the unloading, "has about 3,500 birds on board. They're little more than half of a consignment of 6,500 that got here on a steamship this morning. All from Germany, too, where most all the canaries in the world are bred."

Inside the store the stranger learned a great deal about the canary birds that come from Germany, and a few things about those bred in other lands. First of all, nearly all the canaries imported into America, like the entire consignment received that day, are from Germany. The Greenwich street bird dealer imports from 60,000 to 70,000 canaries a year, and estimates the total American importations of the melodious little creatures at about 200,000 annually.

Everything considered the German canary birds are more satisfactory to most people than those bred anywhere else. They are not so hardy in this country, perhaps, as the American bred; they are not so large and good looking as the English or Scotch varieties, nor as freakily showy as those raised in Belgium. But of all canaries the German bred sing most satisfactorily, and, as 99 in 100 buyers of birds want them for their song, the bulk of the business is in German birds.

The canary was first found wild in the islands of the same name, though whether the islands were named from the bird or the bird from the islands nobody knows. Today, though canary birds still fly about in freedom among the tree branches of the Canary and Madeira Islands, many thousands more are bred in Germany than anywhere, probably than everywhere else. For some reason most German canaries are bred in that part of Germany known as the Hartz mountains. Perhaps there is a climatic reason for Hartz mountain birds to be stronger and more melodious than others; perhaps the breeders there learned their business better than other breeders 250 years ago when the birds were first taken to Europe; perhaps it just happened so. At all events there are not only more Hartz mountain canaries than any others, but they are the best in everything but size, color and freakishness; St. Andreasberg, whence came the famous "full roller" songsters, is in the Hartz mountains.

Inasmuch as the Hartz mountain breeders have to supply the demand for canaries in all parts of Germany and some other European countries as well as the chief part of the American demand, it is probable that nearly 1,000,000 birds are bred there every year. Oddly enough, while the raising of canaries is one of the leading industries of the region, no one is understood to be devoted exclusively to canary breeding. Nearly all classes of people breed canaries—the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker; the farmer, the blacksmith, the miller and all. The most extensive breeder known to the Greenwich street importer breeds only 700 or 800 a year, while many breed only a few each, and there must be thousands and thousands of breeders.

The German canaries begin to reach this country early in August and the shipments continue all through the fall and winter, the heaviest of them coming in November and December, just in time for the birds to be useful as holiday presents. Importation stops in March for the year. The demand during the last twelvemonth has been unprecedented; the consignment of 6,500 received in Greenwich street recently was gone in less than a week.

The birds reach this country at ages ranging from a few months to a year. The younger ones have not been taught to sing, of course, and really are not wanted by the American dealers as a rule, for teaching them to sing is a tedious operation. No importer likes to refuse a consignment of young birds with the demand as great as it is, however, for fear some other dealer will get them.

As practically every bird breeder in the Hartz mountains has some other way of making a living besides hatching, rearing and selling canaries, and which are thus a by-product, they are generally bred just under the roofs, in the attics, and there kept until they have learned to sing. Different breeders adopt different methods of teaching the birds.

Many a breeder keeps in his possession as long as it lives one especially good singing bird; the young birds hear his song and imitate it. Others prefer the canary organ, a queer whistling instrument whose motive power is a stream of water from a pipe acting on a little water wheel. This mechanical melody producer is kept going continuously—"when birds are being taught to sing, and the fact that it never gets tired or falls asleep gives it one value not possessed by the living bird. Some breeders use both the living bird and the canary organ, only running the latter when the former refuses to sing.

Canaries are bred in every country of Europe, but mostly for domestic consumption. English canaries are much larger than the German birds, one rich, orange-colored Cayenne peppered English canary being twice or thrice the size of the average little St. Andreasberg "roller." Not only do English-bred canaries, for some unexplained reason, tend to grow larger than the German breed, but, and for an equally little understood reason, their song, though loud and vociferous enough, is not nearly so melodious as the German birds' song.

A famous English variety is the "Manchester Topknot," a canary with a crest or topknot. The feather-foot canary is another variety, and those who fancy any of these will pay a high price for a good specimen—the range being from $8 to $10 for ordinary birds of any of these types up to $100 for unusual examples, while the German singers are worth much less—$2 to $2.50 being a fair price for a fairly good Hartz mountain canary and $50 a topnotch price for a first-class St. Andreas roller.

The Belgians produce canaries with what is called the "Belgian shoulder," whose necks are unduly developed, as most bird lovers think, but to the great admiration of the Belgians. The "Scotch Fancy" canaries develop a graceful curve between the tip of the tail and the top of the head that has almost the exact sweep of the crescent. There are other fancy varieties of canaries, none of them which are bred in great numbers or valued much except by a few specialists, but all of which are held at higher figures by those who like them than the singing birds generally are by anybody.

Nobody else loves the canary as the German does; nobody else rears or teaches the bird so skillfully and lovingly as he, and a very large proportion of the canaries imported to this country are bought by German-Americans.

Both here and in the Old World the German form bird clubs and carry them on with great enthusiasm, studying the peculiarities of their favorites assiduously, listening critically to their songs and discussing them with all the seriousness that is given to criticism of the opera.

Such clubs are to be found in all cities with large German population; in Chicago, St. Louis and New York, for instance—and in many of the smaller Pennsylvania towns. The Greenwich street dealer says the Keystone state is fairly speckled with them, the number of bird clubs within its boundaries being greater than in any other state. Contests between canary birds—or at least the holding of comparative exhibitions of their powers as singers—are not at all uncommon wherever there are German canary enthusiasts, and it is from the members of such clubs that the importers and the breeders get fancy prices for fancy birds.

Americans sometimes work up a degree of enthusiasm for canaries, but their devotion to the melodious birds never compares with that shown by the Germans, either in degree, persistence or, if the truth must be told, in intelligence. The American's interest in the canary, to put the case flatly, is always faddish and fleeting, while the German is serious, lasting, and, with regard to the bird's song, of the nature of true music worship.

Nobody knows how many canaries are bred annually in this country, for no statistics are kept, but the number is very large.

It used to be said that American-bred canaries were much hardier in the various climates of this country than the German birds, and that seems natural. The importers deny this, and that surely is natural.

They also say that the American-bred bird's song is not so sweet as the German's, and that is perhaps true, speaking in general. That American canaries can be trained to sing as sweetly as those bred anywhere else, even in Germany, many German-American canary breeders assert. They say that inferior notes of the average American-bred canary are due to the lack of systematic training alone, but the importers, whether right or wrong, say that the notes of the American bird are naturally too loud and too shrill to be wholly agreeable, no matter how well trained the bird may be.

This important question may quite safely be left to the breeders, importers and dealers, whose annual transactions are of a magnitude by no means to be sneezed at. The canary business of the Greenwich street importer is probably $100,000 a year, and of all the importers at least $500,000. The transactions in domestic canaries cannot be estimated, even loosely, for no records are kept.

The American canary bird-importers, who are also importers and dealers in parrots and other birds, aquarium fish and many varieties of wild animals, practically control the importations into Canada; Mexico and the northern part of South America. Nearly all the Cayenne, Manchester topknot and Scottish fancy canaries received in New York are sold in Canada, there being little demand for such birds in the United States. No duty is exacted by the United States; the Canadian government, however, exacts a 20 per cent rate on the cheaper birds and about a third more, nearly 27 per cent ad valorem on birds of higher grade. There is also some discrimination in Canadian duties against birds from Germany. In Canada, therefore, canary birds are much higher than in the United States, a condition that obtains in very few lines.

Canary bird seed is imported from Turkey, Smyrna, Sicily and the Argentine Republic; rape seed from South America, Germany and Russia mainly. Some rape seed is grown commercially in this country, though not much. It grows wild, as a weed here, and so does genuine canary seed, but the latter is cultivated very little, if at all, here.

Fol-de-rol, sol-de-rol, dol-de-rol Moll,
Bumped and thumped in many a brawl,
She was a doll that could bawl and sprawl
Her raiment was limited to one shawl.

For baby had tossed her across the hall,
If you chance to call on sorrowful Moll,
Your hair will crawl, as she tells you it all,—
Fol-de-rol, sol-de-rol, dol-de-rol Moll!

STUPIDITY OF RUSSIAN POLICE.

[Ernest Poole, in The World Today.]

The Czar's whole bureaucracy has for years been so thoroughly detested by all classes of Russians that now it is mainly filled by the least intelligent of the population, and of these the police are the worst. I myself was arrested several times, as so many correspondents are, and I found the police in every instance the most dense of mortals. From my newspaper friends I heard scores of stories about this stupidity. These two are typical:

Some time ago a man threw a bomb at a governor, killed him and escaped. The government sent all over the empire a placard with two photographs of the assassin, his front view and his profile. Three weeks later a policeman in Western Siberia telegraphed:

"Have captured both criminals and am bringing them to Petersburg!"

At midnight in Petersburg an innocent, peace loving professor stood on a bridge, staring down into the sluggish waters of the Neva. He was thinking of a rival professor who had a new theory about gravitation.

"That man," said the professor aloud, "is the dullest idiot in Russia."

Instantly a big policeman pounced upon him out of the darkness, and without a word began dragging him off. The poor old professor shook with terror.

"Why am I arrested?" he asked.

"What is my crime?"

"High treason!" growled the policeman.

"But why? Why?"

"Oh, don't try to fool me! You called His Imperial Majesty an idiot!"

"Heavens!" cried the horrified professor, the spectacles falling from his nose. "Why should you think I was speaking of the Czar?"

The big policeman stopped and looked down, puzzled.

"The dullest idiot in Russia," he said slowly, searching his memory. "Who else could you have meant?"

WILL BE TAKEN TO PORTLAND.

S. A. D. Puter, Who Was Arrested in Alameda Sunday.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 22.—Francis J. Heney, special prosecutor for the government in the land fraud cases, said yesterday that he had telegraphed to Oregon for a bench warrant, and upon receipt of that document, S. A. D. Puter, who made a sensational escape from Secret Service Agent William J. Burns, in Boston some months ago, and was captured in Alameda Sunday, would be taken to Portland. Puter said yesterday that no one went west to see Heney. He requested Mrs. E. L. Watson to arrange an interview, and when she failed he asked his wife and Mrs. Horace McKinley to do it. He added that all of them made a mess of it. Puter denied that Mrs. McKinley (Marie Ware) had been traveling with him. The latter was formerly an officer of the Oregon courts and has six indictments hanging over her for alleged complicity in land fraud cases. Mrs. McKinley indignantly denied the rumor that she had decoyed Puter to his arrest, saying: "I have been living for the last few months in San Francisco, and could not possibly have been traveling with Puter about the country. I became entangled in this case because I was a witness at the trial several years ago, but I have had nothing to do with the efforts of the government to capture the fugitive."

GREAT LOSS TO SCIENCE.

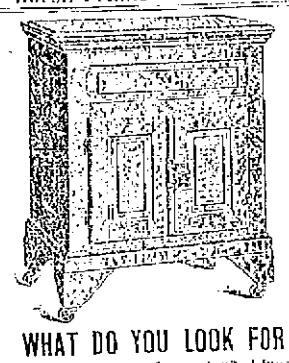

Rare Collections of Specimens Destroyed by Earthquake Can Never be Replaced.

[Scientific American.]

Science has lost almost irretrievably in the destruction of one institution, not to refer to others, in which the most ardent hopes of the future were centered. The history of the California Academy of Sciences has many counterparts in other institutions devoted to pure science. It was begun 10 years ago, and after a career of stress and poverty, at last as a beneficiary of the Lick estate, emerged into the full sunshine of wealth, and with splendid equipment was doing invaluable work in investigation and discovery. The latest expedition to be sent out by the institution is even now at work preparing a catalogue of the flora and fauna of the Galapagos islands, where a company of scientists are exploring that remote group, and filling a gap which thus far has remained a blank page to science. In the department of entomology the academy has done immense service to general knowledge. Its collection of specimens was one of the finest in the world, and can never be replaced, and its museum of natural science, fossils, Indian curiosities, reptiles of California and Lower California, Asiatic and Mexican birds, together with a complete collection of the flora of the Pacific coast, included much that can never be replaced and many things that are lost to the world forever.

The Astronomical society of the Pacific lost its valuable records and many rare manuscripts, as did the Geographical society of the Pacific. The University of California, with its great museum temporarily housed at the Affiliated colleges, suffered no loss from either shock or flames. Every public library in San Francisco fell a victim to the catastrophe, the largest being the Free Public with three branches containing 150,000 volumes, the Mechanics', with 80,000; the Mercantile with 60,000; the San Francisco Law, with 41,000; and the library of the California Historical society, with its priceless manuscript and unreplaceable records. There were in the city many noted private and professional libraries, which were all destroyed; no one had time to save books. Millions of volumes were reduced to ashes. Of schools and colleges destroyed, the most noted was St. Ignatius, a college of the Jesuit Fathers, located on Van Ness avenue and the first established in San Francisco. The society also lost its magnificent church, built in the style of the Spanish Renaissance and richly decorated. College and church cannot be replaced for less than a million and a half dollars. Twenty-eight public schools of all classes were burned.

A ONE-LEGGED GOLFER.

Athletes Make Records Even Though Seriously Handicapped—Loss of a Limb Does Not Incapacitate.

[Tit-Bits.]

Although most of us have seen, or at least heard of, the one-legged cricketers—11 of whom were often wont, in the days when the game was not so strictly disciplined as it is at present, to oppose an eleven of one armed players—one-legged athletes are by no means common, and a one-legged golfer is probably unique. Yet such a phenomenon does exist, in the person of a member of the Bulwell Artisans' Club, who, it is said, plays a very sound game. He, in all probability, however, acquired the rudiments of the science when acting as a caddie in days previous to the accident that necessitated the amputation of his limb.

That such a handicap as the loss of a leg does not incapacitate a man from excelling as a swimmer has been conclusively proven on more than one occasion. One of the foremost exponents of the natatory art at the present day labors under this disadvantage, and many old frequenters of Brill's Baths at Brighton will remember the head swimming master, Camp, who, despite the fact that he had but one leg, was not only an adept at trick swimming, but in the matter of pace could give a start and a beating to many who had the normal number of limbs.

More than once has a one-legged cyclist won a race, and not so long since such a one, named West, used, with a liberal start, to hold his own with the speediest professionals. Kilpatrick, too, must be endowed with as much power in his one leg as most men have in their two, if we consider the many daring feats he has accomplished on his cycle, foremost among which are his standing with his machine on the summit of the 100-foot-high Laxey wheel, in the Isle of Man, and his descending at breakneck speed the east steps of the Capitol at Washington.

The annals of foot racing contain more than one record in point. We read how once Newmarket Heath was the scene of a race between two cripples, each having a wooden leg. In the presence of a goodly throng, among whom was the merry monarch, "they started fair, and hobbled a good pace, which caused great admiration and laughter among the beholders; but the taller of the two won by two or three yards." Again, over a hundred years later, in 1799, a certain one-legged man, named Carter, backed himself to cover six miles within the hour, and performed the feat, with six minutes to spare.

Some years since a wrestler named Blact gained much kudos among the habitues of continental fairs, less by his wrestling prowess although that was not inconsiderable—than by his being handicapped by the loss of a leg. This notwithstanding, he always made a gallant and not infrequently a successful show, his great height, strength and weight standing him in good stead. He excelled, too, in feats of strength, and was specially notable for his skill in casting a heavy blacksmith's hammer. To a trial of skill with this implement he was wont to issue a general challenge, and it was but seldom he found his master.

Nothing, one would say, is more calculated to place a boxer at a disadvantage than the loss of a leg. Yet Thomas Keach, a burly 15-stone man, topping six feet by some three inches, will hold his own with the gloves with such as had the temerity to face him in the arena of the booth with which he and other boxers traveled the fairs and race courses in the days when pugilism flourished.

Not only did he take on all comers of minor warfare, but on one occasion at least he stripped in the ring for serious fray, his opponent being a Leicester butcher, who thought to compensate for his inferiority in pounds and inches by his superior activity. In this, however, he was mistaken, for the long left of the cripple, which he was unable to avoid, put him out of time after 17 well-fought rounds.

WHEN WOMEN VOTE.

[Harper's Bazar.]

I keep forgetting that this was my first view of a state in which women have full suffrage. You see, the privilege had not perceptibly altered them. I could not discover that they were any less feminine here than elsewhere. If anything, they wore white fluffy clothes upon the street more freely than I had known the Eastern women to do. They were given to big white hats of lace or chiffon; and so determined to get the good of their white shoes that they wore them even with black dresses. So far as such interest in pretty clothes may be held to establish the point, it is evident that more than a few legislative enactments will be required to knock out the eternal womanly. For instance, the proprietor of the leading millinery shop told me this tale of the first time the polls were open to women.

"I wasn't prepared for any rush in the business," he said. "In fact, I don't suppose I was much interested in the suffrage question. But all of a sudden I noticed an increase in our sales; then mail orders came in thick and fast; and finally we had crowds around our bargain counters equal to the week before Easter; and even our imported hats, on the second floor, were going with a rush.

"'What's the matter with the women?' I said to the forewoman. 'Any Woman's Christian Temperance Union convention, or public reception or high church holiday?'

"'No, indeed,' said she. 'Why, don't you know? They're going to vote tomorrow!'"

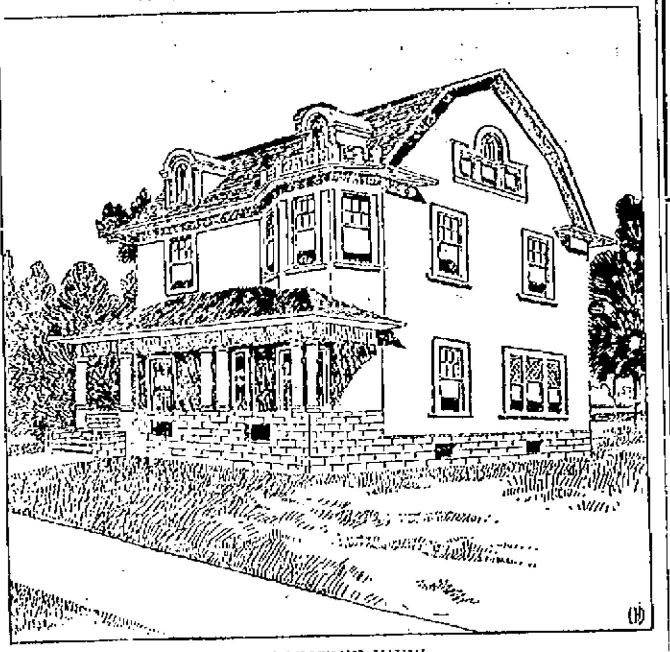

KNOW THY COUNTRY.

[Portland Oregonian.]

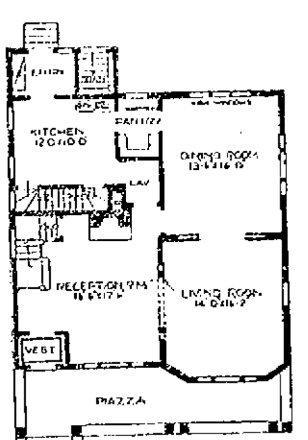

Juvenal said: "This precept descended from heaven: Know thyself." To this we add: Know thy country. Know its area, its population, its products native and exclusive, agricultural and mineral; know its present output and its possibilities. Know its states, its territories and large cities, and what they are severally noted for; know its geography and topography; its constitution, politics and history; its literature, its art and its sciences; its philosophy, discoveries and inventions. Know its relations to other nations, both political and historical. Know its possessions—Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, and the Philippines, their history severally, the customs and bearings of their people, and the sources of their wealth. Many men know these things now, and are useful and are serviceable to their fellow-citizens in proportion to their knowledge. It costs labor and the sacrifice of so-called pleasure to acquire this knowledge, but to the genuinely manly man, whose life's purpose is to make the utmost of his abilities and opportunities, and who in one way and another is developing his country's hidden treasures and imparting his own practical enthusiasm to other lives, there is a relish and delight in the search for knowledge that compensates a thousandfold.

HOUSING WORKING GIRLS.

Clerks in Department Stores for $3 a Week—Too Ill Nourished to be Worth More.

[Hartford Courant.]

While the New York Charity Organization Society, aided by Mrs. Florence Kelley, who is one of the most accomplished and practical students of social conditions, is trying to solve the problem of housing Gotham working girls who do not earn more than $3 a week, Consul Dunning writes from Milan of what is being done in that city to provide the very poor with suitable places in which to live. The two problems are not the same, that under consideration in New York relating to girls who have no homes of their own, and Milan's difficulty having to do with families living in one room each. Of the two problems, that in Milan seems to have been rather the more serious, though that of the poorly paid working girl in the metropolis is very perplexing. Investigation shows that many girls who work in department stores are not worth more than $3 a week to their employers. They are too ill-nourished and too ill-taught to earn more. They will not be worth more until they have been properly fed and properly taught, and so the situation is serious, both from their standpoint and from that of those trying to devise ways and means to help them.

As to conditions in Milan, Mr. Dunning says that a commission found 3,000 families living in one room each, and that 330,000 persons, comprising 70 per cent of the population, were living in 172,417 rooms. Many of these rooms had no light except what came through the door. Last year Milan voted on the question of municipal participation in plans for providing better homes for working people. The majority in favor was very large, and many modern tenements will be built at once and 18 of these buildings will contain 500 rooms each, which will be divided into one, two and three-room apartments. These buildings will go far in supplementing the recently constructed lodging houses which were built under the supervision of competent sanitary engineers, and provide good quarters at a cost of 60 cents a week. Another step in behalf of Milan's poor has been taken by the Humanitarian Society, which appropriated $100,000 for the construction of model apartment homes.

"Running an Account" That Never Runs One Into Debt.

For the convenience of patrons who like to have their purchases "charged" we inaugurated our

DEPOSITORS' ACCOUNT SYSTEM.

TODAY many thousand Macy patrons enjoy its advantages. This Depositors' Account plan is ideally simple and ideally satisfactory. You merely deposit a sum of money in the department on the Balcony—a sum great or small, as you elect—then have "charged" to this depositary purchases you make in the Macy store.

We render monthly statements and allow 4 per cent interest, compounded every three months, on your daily balance.

While a deposit cannot be checked against for expenditures made outside of the store—as we do no banking business—any or all of it may be withdrawn at any time.

This unique plan affords every CONVENIENCE of an ordinary "charge" account in a credit store and every ECONOMY of Macy's STRICTLY CASH system.

FOR SUMMER HOME FURNISHERS WE OFFER UNSURPASSED FACILITIES.

If your plans involve a large expenditure, have our Contract Department submit estimates.

FEDERAL PRISONERS ESCAPE.

Break Through Four Thicknesses of Brick with Window Weight.

NEWPORT, Vt., May 22.—Singing and shouting boisterously to cover up the noise of their operations, three federal prisoners held awaiting trial on the charge of robbing the postoffice at Norton's Mills April 21, broke through four thickness of brick with a window weight and escaped from the Orleans county jail here today. The hole, which was about 16 inches wide and 11 inches high, was made in broad daylight out on a side street leading off the main street of the town. A few minutes after the prisoners had crawled out of their cell they were seen sauntering down the main street and an alarm was immediately sounded, but before the officers could catch up with the men they had dropped their leisurely manner and were running swiftly for the woods on the outskirts of the town. A posse on foot and on horseback was hastily gathered for the pursuit, but as the Canadian border was only five miles away the prisoners' chances for escape seemed good.

Not for years has such an audacious escape from a Vermont jail taken place. The three men, who gave their names as John Jenkins, Joseph McDonald and William Irving, with residences unknown, were charged with robbing the Norton's Mills postoffice April 21, but they slipped by the officers who were looking for them and were not captured until four days later, when they were surprised in Berlin, N. H. where they were selling jewelry and other articles and were taken into custody April 25. A short time later they were lodged in the Orleans county jail awaiting trial. Officers meanwhile were seeking evidence to connect the men with numerous other burglaries that have occurred throughout the state.

In the daytime the men were allowed the freedom of the jail corridors. This morning after their usual stroll about the building they went back into their cell and apparently held a jollification meeting. They kept up a continuous round of singing, intermingled with loud laughter and joking, but thinking such amusement was harmless the prison officials did not interfere. At about 10 o'clock the merriment in the cell died down and the keepers thought that the prisoners had tired of their fun. A few moments later an excited citizen rushed into the warden's office, saying that he had seen the three federal prisoners walking down the street. The warden rushed to the cell in which the men had lately been confined and saw close to the floor a gaping hole through the four thickness of brick. A battered window weight lying on the cell floor showed the method in which the hole in the wall to the outside street had been made.

A few moments of hasty telephoning, warning nearby towns and gathering a posse, gave the fugitives a valuable start, but the officers followed close enough behind to see their men disappear into the woods headed for the Canadian line.

SCORE OF MEN INJURED.

Result of Explosion of Steam Pipe in Glucose Plant.

NEW YORK, May 22.—A score of men employed in the engine and dynamo rooms of the New York Glucose Company's plant in Shady Side, N. J., on the west bank of the Hudson river, opposite Ninetieth street, Manhattan, were more or less injured today by the explosion of a big steam pipe. The roof of the building was blown off and the wreckage caught fire. Some of the 30 men who were at work in the building had narrow escapes from death, but were taken out of the blazing ruins by their fellow laborers from adjoining buildings belonging to the same company. In the confusion which followed the explosion many reports of serious loss of life were spread among the relatives of the employes, who, with other spectators, were denied admission to the grounds. The extent of the disaster thus became exaggerated. The company's force and local firemen fought the flames which threatened to destroy several other buildings in the big glucose plant.

After the explosion the officials of the company were unable to account for five men who were employed in the wrecked building. It was said, however, that they might have gone to their homes. No bodies were taken from the ruins.

RESCUED HIS SERVANTS.

House of Chancellor Day Badly Damaged by Fire.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 22.—Chancellor James R. Day of Syracuse University rescued two servants in his home from suffocation today. Fire broke out in the chancellor's home at an early hour. Mrs. Day aroused the chancellor who called the fire department by telephone, and then answered the screams of the servants on the third floor. The smoke was dense and Dr. Day put a blanket over his head. He reached the girls, who were panic stricken, and led them to safety. One had gone on the roof. The chancellor is none the worse for his experience and received callers on his lawn. His den, containing part of his library, was destroyed. The fire was caused by a defective chimney. The loss was $5,000.

MISSION BOARD MEETS.

Semi-Annual Conference Held in Congregational Church, Campello.

BROCKTON, Mass., May 22.—The semi-annual meeting of the Women's Board of Missions (Congregational) was held here today in the South church, Campello. The board reports the Congregational churches of New England and of the Middle states east of the Ohio river. Owing to the recent death of the president, Mrs. Judson Smith, the vice president, Mrs. Charles H. Daniels, presided. After devotional exercises the address of welcome was delivered by Mrs. A. F. Pierce of Campello. The secretary of the home department, Miss E. Harriet Stanwood, gave a report entitled "Glimpses Near Home." The receipts for six months of the present year were reported as $58,599. The remainder of the exercises included a series of addresses on missions.

"FUNCTION OF THE CHURCH."

Topic at Conference of Congregational Ministers and Laymen.

PROVIDENCE, May 22.—Ministers and lay delegates from Congregational churches in all sections of Rhode Island gathered at the Central Congregational Church here today for the two days' annual state conference of the denomination. The morning session today was devoted chiefly to the business of organization and reports from the different churches. In the afternoon addresses were delivered and discussions held on the general topic "The Function of the Church." Rev. James Austin Richards of Newport commenced the program with a paper on "The Preaching Function," followed by Rev. Martin L. Williston of Barrington on "The Teaching Functions." Professor James Q. Dealey of Brown University read the concluding paper of the series on "The Function of Social Service." The Communion service was in charge of Rev. J. H. Woolley of Pawtucket and Rev. J. H. Lyon of Providence concluded the afternoon session.

Former Ambassador Storer Goes to Paris.

VIENNA, May 22.—Bellamy Storer, former American ambassador here, and Mrs. Storer left Vienna for Paris today. They are going to the United States in the fall.

Calumet & Hecla Dividend.

BOSTON, May 22. The Calumet & Hecla Mining Company directors today declared a quarterly dividend of $15 per share, payable June 22 to stock of record May 24. This compares with $15, three months ago, and $10 a year ago.

ELECTRICAL WORKERS STRIKE.

About 100 Leave Work in Providence When Demand Was Refused.

PROVIDENCE, May 22.—Local electrical workers to the number of about 100 went out on strike today when their demand for a $1 increase for an eight-hour day's work was refused by the contractors. The workmen also demand a revision of the apprentice system, which they claim has been in bad shape for the past few months. The demands were presented to the employers about a week ago. The strikers are members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

This afternoon the workmen held a meeting at union headquarters, it being stated that it would probably be determined by the union what action they would take to assist in arriving at an amicable adjustment of the difficulty. The strike, if long continued, is expected to cause considerable delay in local building operations. The men on strike include the greater portion of the craft in the city.

OPPOSED EIGHT-HOUR BILL.

Representative of Carnegie Company Appears Before House Committee.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—A. C. Hayden, representing the Carnegie Steel Company, opposed the eight-hour bill today before the House committee on labor. He said the enactment of the measure would drive every large institution now taking government contracts from that field, would turn over the manufacture of the supplies of the government to the small contractor, and would increase the cost of the same to the government from 12½ to 25 per cent.

The Elements.

The effect of weather on paint is all powerful. To withstand the elements, paint must be manufactured from pure Linseed Oil, pure White Lead and pure Colors. Nothing else will insure a permanent, durable finish. Substitutes are expensive and unsatisfactory, as experience has taught you. Colonial Paint is made of absolutely pure Linseed Oil, pure White Lead and chemically pure Colors. Positively free from adulteration of any sort.

Colonial Paint is not "as good as" other paints, it is the BEST paint made.

We sell Colonial Paint because we can guarantee it and we will sell only what we can guarantee.

SAVED BABY LYON'S LIFE

Untold Suffering and Constant Misery—Awful Sight From that Dreadful Complaint, Infantile Eczema—Commenced at Top of his Head and Covered Entire Body.

MOTHER PRAISES CUTICURA REMEDIES

"Our baby had that dreadful complaint, Infantile Eczema, which afflicted him for several months, commencing at the top of his head, and at last covering his whole body. His sufferings were untold and constant misery, in fact, there was nothing we would not have done to have given him relief. The family doctor seemed to be wholly incapable of coping with the case, and after various experiments of his, which resulted in no benefit to the child, we sent to Mazon, Ill., to a druggist and got a full set of the Cuticura Remedies and applied as per directions, and he began to improve immediately, and in about three or four days began to show a brighter spirit and really laughed, for the first time in a year. In about ninety days he was fully recovered, with the exception of a rough skin, which is gradually disappearing, and eventually will be replaced by a healthy one.

"Praise for the Cuticura Remedies has always been our greatest pleasure, and there is nothing too good that we could say in their favor, for they certainly saved our baby's life, for he was the most awful sight that I ever beheld, prior to the treatment of the Cuticura Remedies. Mrs. Machella Lyon, 1820 Appleton Ave., Parsons, Kan., July 18, 1905."

COMPLETE TREATMENT $1

Complete external and internal treatment for every humor, consisting of Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills, may now be had for one dollar. FINANCIAL.

NEW YORK, May 22, Wall Street—The stock market opened irregular, with Amalgamated Copper at 109⅝, American Smelting 155, Anaconda 270, Brooklyn Transit 83, Canadian 159⅛, Erie 44, Erie first preferred 78⅝, Missouri Pacific 95⅜, New York Central 139⅜, Norfolk & Western 89½, Ontario & Western 50⅝, Pennsylvania 131⅝, Reading 132¼, St. Paul 165⅝, Southern Pacific 65, Union Pacific 148⅝, United States Steel 40⅝, United States Steel preferred 105⅜.

10—The opening trading in the stock market today was without any show of animation. Gains and losses of ⅛ to ⅜ in the principal active stocks were indiscriminately mixed. St. Paul opened at a decline of ⅜ and Pennsylvania ½. Five thousand shares of Reading changed hands at an advance of ⅛.

11—Much the same tactics were resorted to to revive trading as on yesterday, bull traders making a demonstration in the anthracite coalers to bring about a sympathetic rise in other stocks. Renewed offerings made their appearance as soon as St. Paul, Union Pacific and Amalgamated Copper had recovered to about yesterday's closing. Lackawanna added another 10 points to its sensational rise, the price reaching 550.

Noon—Money on call, easy, nominally at 2½ @ 3½ per cent; prime mercantile paper, 4 @ 5 per cent. When the advances in the coalers were completed, prices yielded slowly to below last night. Amalgamated Copper, Smelting and Canadian Pacific lost large fractions. Bonds were steady.

BENEFITS ALL ALIKE.

New Charter Will Not Injure the Republicans or Help the Democrats.

To the Editor of the News:

Sir: The argument of the opponents of the new charter, that its adoption will injure the Republican party and that it is a Democratic measure, has not the slightest foundation in fact. It will not injure the Republican or the Democratic organization, and the benefits derived from its becoming a law will be realized by all political parties alike.

The adoption of the charter will in no way decrease the number of voters on the voting lists. It in no way interferes with the caucus law in national or state politics. It does not change the present ward lines. How absurd the statement! Will an elector be any less a Republican or a Democrat because of the adoption of a new system of municipal government on a non-partisan basis?

How absurd also is the statement that it is a Democratic measure. Look over the names of the men who framed the charter. Are they not the names of the ablest men in the Republican party, and numerically they outnumber those of any other party in the proportion of three to one. Dr. Brackett in his opening address described the labor and thought given to the new charter and stated that the question of party was never raised on its consideration. Are we to believe the doctor, or is the war cry of every heeler and ward heeler to be taken as the truth?

The charter is a Democratic document only so far as it contends for the principle expressed in the Declaration of Independence and amplified in the constitution of the country, that our government should rest on the "consent of the governed." It is Republican only in fact that it contains the principle favored in every Republican platform since the organization of that party and in the sentence of the great Lincoln, that a government of "of the people, for the people and by the people shall not perish from the earth." The writer appeals to your readers not to be misled by scheming politicians, who by political devices are seeking to defeat an honest effort to provide for Newport a local government based on sound political principles.

The charter in no way interferes with politics from a national or state standpoint. It restores to Newport the right to govern itself. When the Police Commission was first established the writer was one of those who believed that some drastic measure was necessary to relieve the condition which then existed. He is bound now to confess that the robbing of Newport of the right of local self-government was a sad mistake, and that the proper remedy was the organization of a movement to appeal for better government, just as the Municipal Association is appealing for good government through the new charter.

It is very evident that the "boss" and the machine are trying to deceive the people and defeat the new charter. The question is often asked: Why is the "boss" so anxious for its defeat? The answer is very plain, because if successful here in Newport it will extend to the other cities of the state. Then the era of political bossism, graft and corruption will come to an end and the vocation of the "boss" ceases.

Your correspondent sincerely hopes that every citizen will vote for this new charter. That it is new is not the question. Is it right, and does it make for the better government of our little city, is the question?

Taxpayer.

Newport, May 22, 1906.

POLITICAL BOSSES AGAINST THE CHARTER.

To the Editor of the News:

The principle contained in the new city charter is that of government of the people and not by political bosses. Direct nominations by the people and not selection of candidates by political bosses at ward caucuses will be a terrible blow to the bosses, and for that reason the bosses are against the charter, as they are always against everything the people desire.

Recently the people of Philadelphia rose up against the bosses and has deemed that city; now let the people of Newport vote for the charter and give such an overwhelming majority that the political bosses will be obliged to find some other occupation.

Republican.

Newport, May 22, 1906.

THE TAXPAYERS' INTEREST IN THE CHARTER.

To the Editor of the News:

Dear Sir: I have been reading the copy of the charter sent to me through the mail, and I have talked about it with my friends. Most of us think the new charter is important to the man who pays the taxes. Surely the management of the money affairs has not been a great success.

We have seen that there is no way to stop the free spending of the city money. Even when there is no money to spend, appropriations are made just the same. A little thing like an overdraft or bogus bonders the men who make up our councils. Is it not true that there is likely to be a fresh overdraft at the end of the year? Have any of the appropriations been cut down in consequence? The saying that "everybody's business is nobody's business" fits the ways of doing things under the present charter.

When work is to be done and contracts are let, there is often no proper care in preparing the specifications. Contracts are frequently awarded, not to the lowest responsible bidder, but to the friends of those in control. Then there is careless supervision, and we are discouraged from asking questions about these things. It might be different if we could reach by our votes men or who are responsible for mistakes or neglect, but they are in most cases protected by their influence in the wards which elect them. Poor work has been accepted and paid for, time after time. Higher prices have been paid than the quality of the work warranted.

With a large representative council to appropriate, after 25 picked men have passed on matters and probed them to the bottom; with a mayor and five aldermen debarred by the whole taxpaying votes to supervise expenditures, there should be every reason to expect better government in money matters than we now enjoy.

A Taxpayer.

MIDDLETOWN.

Rival Petitions for Telephone Lines on West Main Road.

Only One Section of Highway to be Improved at Present, the Cost Being High.

(Regular correspondence of the News.)

The monthly meeting of the town council and court of probate was held at the town hall yesterday afternoon, and the many matters claiming consideration occupied the attention of the members until after 6 o'clock.

The day had been assigned for a hearing on the petition of the Providence Telephone Company, to erect a new line of poles on the west side of the West Main road, from Beacon street to the Portsmouth line. The Home Telephone Company, represented by Barney and Lee of Providence, early in the afternoon presented a petition for permission to use in general the streets and highway of Middletown for the erection of poles and other necessary apparatus for carrying on telephone and telegraph service. The petitioner promises a better system and service and lower rates than now exist. This petition was laid over to the June meeting, for further consideration.

No one appeared to advocate the petition of the Providence Telephone Company, for permission to erect a new line. On the contrary, a remonstrance was filed, signed by 16 taxpayers, for the most part abutters on the West Main road, against the proposition. The remonstrants allege that the Providence Company already has a line adequate to meet all demands, that the erection of another line on the west side would involve the mutilation of many fine trees, and that this side should be kept for a side path.

Mr. Philip A. Brown addressed the council at length in opposition to granting the petition. He thought the people who own estates on the West Main road should receive some consideration. Formerly the town council had been too willing to grant every concession asked for by telephone, telegraph and railway companies, often without giving the slightest intimation to the public that any concession or grant of privileges was contemplated. The once beautiful road side on the east has been destroyed, the shade trees robbed of all their grace and symmetry, little space left for a footpath, and in many instances the approach to private residences rendered inconvenient. He had yet to learn of any substantial benefits resulting to the people in general for all this sacrifice, and he earnestly objected to any further encroachments by corporations.

Mr. Brown was followed by Mr. George Coggeshall, who was of the same mind. The new line could not be erected on the west side without great injury to the many trees now growing between the points mentioned. It had taken half a century to develop and mature these trees, and as those on the opposite side had been so completely deprived of all natural beauty and comeliness, these should be preserved. He thought the time had come to protest against such wanton destruction of trees, even if the enterprising public service corporations are heeded some of their requests and compelled to adopt other methods for the transmission of sound. Let them resort to cables.

No one interposing any plea in behalf of the petitioner, it was granted leave to withdraw.

Two sections of Second and First Beach avenues had been designated for repairs, and bids invited for doing the work. On the first section, running easterly from Renfrew Park and comprising 1,450 linear feet, William C. and J. Overton Peckham bid $1,573.75, and James Corrigan $1,610. The Peckham bid was accepted and the contract awarded to them. Edward A. Brown was accepted as surety on the bond. On the second section, running Howard Sachuest beach, the Peckhams bid $1,477 and James Corrigan $1,559. As the total of the lowest bids on both sections would exhaust more than three fifths of the entire appropriation of $5,000 for stone roads and leave little for application elsewhere, it was decided to defer the repair of the second section for the present, and to reject both proposals received for doing the work.

The following accounts were allowed and ordered paid: Highway repairs—Elmer H. Sisson, surveyor of road district No. 1, $59.80; William S. Caswell, No. 2, $128.40; William G. Brown, No. 4, $36.80; W. Clarence Peckham, services as town auditor, two years, $4; Peckham brothers, for crushed stone, $10.34; John D. Blair, for making a list of owners and keepers of dogs, $37.50; T. T. Pitman, advertising, $6; James A. Taber, repairs on road scraper, $9.25.

In probate matters the will of Martha M. Smith was proved and ordered recorded, and letters testamentary granted to George W. Smith as executor, bond to pay debts being required in the sum of $200.

James T. Peckham was appointed administrator on the estate of Sarah M. Peckham and directed to give bond in the sum of $100, with Charles Peckham as surety.

An inventory of the estate of John R. Wood, presented by Charles H. Wood, administrator, was allowed and ordered recorded; also an inventory of the estate of the minor children of Frank J. Vargas.

The first and final account of Frederick B. Spooner, administrator on the estate of William Spooner, was allowed and ordered recorded.

The petition of Martha C. Bliss, to sell the interest of her ward, Edward Newton Bliss, in the Langley Wharf estate in Newport, was continued to the third Monday in June.

Esther A. Peckham, administratrix on the estate of Herman F. Peckham, presented her first and final account therewith, which was referred to the third Monday in June, with an order of notice.

FIRE AT VANDERBILT ESTATE.

Fire at Biltmore, the George W. Vanderbilt estate, has destroyed the Biltmore wood and lumber yard and about 100,000 feet of lumber.

Mrs. Vanderbilt was at Biltmore House, and, being notified by telephone, she hurried to the fire and offered suggestions to the fire commanders, which were promptly obeyed. By hard work much of the lumber was saved and the flames kept from adjoining buildings. It took five hours to check the fire.

A BELMONT MEMORIAL IN A LONG ISLAND CHURCH.

An illuminated tablet has been placed upon the Belmont family pew at St. George's Episcopal Church at Hempstead, L. I., in memory of the late Mrs. Bessie Morgan Belmont, wife of August Belmont, "in recognition of the late Mrs. R. M. Belmont's devotion to the church and of the great generosity of August Belmont." Mr. Belmont is senior warden of the church.

CITY HALL OFFICIALS AT THEIR WORK.

Assistant City Treasurer Coggeshall—In the Midst of His Correspondence.

THE LATE DR. WHEDON.

Distinguished as Educator, Author, Commentator and Scholar.

Rev. Daniel A. Whedon, D. D., who died at his residence in East Greenwich Sunday, from the infirmities of old age, was taken with a slow fever soon after his return from the sessions of the Methodist Conference in this city early in April, and was confined to bed for the past three or four weeks. He did not suffer greatly, and said that before this attack he had never known an illness.

Daniel Avery Whedon, the son of Hiram and Margaret (Avery) Whedon, was of the best Methodist stock. He was born in Bratttingham, Lewis county, New York, December 16, 1823. He prepared for college at the academy in Stockbridge, N. Y., and at Cazenovia Seminary, of which Rev. E. D. Blakeslee, D. D., long principal of the East Greenwich Academy, and formerly of this city, is now the head. Dr. Whedon completed his education at Wesleyan University at Middletown, Conn., graduating from that institution with Phi Beta Kappa honors in 1847.

He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1839, was received on probation in the New York Conference in 1846 and was transferred the next year to the Oneida, now the Central New York, Conference, and appointed to Morrisville circuit with Rev. Edward G. Andrews, now bishop, as junior preacher. His principal appointments in this conference were in Norwich, and the first churches in Ithaca, Auburn and Utica. From 1858 to 1861 he was presiding elder of the Chenango district. In 1866 he was transferred to the Providence, now the Southern New England, Conference, and stationed at the First Church in this city.

In 1881 he was appointed a delegate to the ecumenical conference in London and in 1881 to the centennial conference at Baltimore.

Dr. Whedon was especially interested in the educational work of the church. For 10 years he was a trustee at Cazenovia, for 16 years president of the board of directors of East Greenwich Academy and for 21 years a trustee of Wesleyan University. In 1859 his alma mater conferred upon him the degree of doctor of divinity.

For 50 years he was a contributor to the periodicals of the church, and for a long time wrote book notices for the Methodist Quarterly Review. For 20 years he wrote book notices for Harper & Bros. of New York. For 13 years he supplied comments on the Sunday School lessons to the Northern Christian Advocate and articles on Methodism in the lessons of the Sunday School Journal.

In connection with his uncle, Rev. D. D. Whedon, LL. D., he edited the well known Whedon's Commentary, himself writing the notes on the books of Colossians and Philippians and on the Epistles of Peter. With his cousin, the Rev. J. S. Whedon, he prepared the memorial volumes from his uncle's papers entitled "Essays, Reviews and Discourses," and "Statements, Theological and Critical."

At the centennial of New England Methodism in Boston in 1890, he read a paper upon Methodist theology which attracted wide attention. He was member and secretary of the committee which edited the Methodist Hymnal of 1878.

About 1870 he published in the Methodist Review a series of articles on the printed Greek text of the New Testament, which gave the fullest account of it that had ever been published. In recognition of the critical scholarship which was displayed in these articles, Dr. Trejelles sent to their author a copy of his edition of the Greek New Testament.

Dr. Whedon was three times married. In 1858 he wedded Miss Helen M. Myers of Courtland, N. Y., who survives him. His first wife was Miss Mary L. Jones of Wallingford, Conn., whom he married in 1846, and who died about 1855. Dr. Whedon's second wife lived only about three months after their marriage.

FOR THE CARNIVAL.

Committee Formulates a General Program, About Which the Details Will be Grouped.

The Newport Carnival committee held a meeting last evening, at which a general program was formulated from reports from sub-committees. The arrangement is not complete, but there is now a general plan, about which the full program will be builded. The fact that the New York Yacht Club races are to occur here that week has been duly considered by the committee in charge, as these are always material attractions for Newport. The big committee which is to be formed for the Carnival night parade will now begin work and it is hoped to make this event surpass that of last year. The preliminary program of the week is as follows:

Monday—Gymkhana events.

Tuesday—Yacht races for Astor cup, New York Yacht Club.

Wednesday—Yacht races for King cups, New York Yacht Club; automobile races.

Thursday—Floral parade. Cadet procession, races under auspices of the Narragansett Bay Yacht Racing Association, carnival parade.

Friday—Races of Motor Boat Club of America.

Last evening a number of representatives of local organizations met and talked over the subject of the Carnival parade. As it was the consensus of opinion of those present that there should be a fuller expression than one representative of an order could be expected to give, it was decided to hold a meeting Friday evening, which the presiding officers of all orders are requested to attend, bringing with them another representative. It is hoped that there may be a free expression of ideas, from which plans may be formed, and that through these delegations these plans may be reported to the various organizations more in detail than by any other plan. Representatives of organizations who may attend will do so unofficially and without in any way committing their organizations, for it is the intention to have the several organizations thoroughly enlightened before they are asked to send authorized delegates for membership in a general committee.

The Elks have already appointed a committee to prepare for the parade and other organizations are understood to be ready to do so as soon as the general committee formulates a plan, and it is for that purpose that the general committee is calling the informal meeting. The finance committee for the celebration is about to jump on the line of action and begin work in the near future.

A MOTLEY CREW.

Disreputable Band of Gypsies Driven from Town After a Short Stay.

A disreputable looking band of gypsies arrived in Newport yesterday afternoon, and after a short stay were ordered out of the city, going out Broadway into the country. The visitors came on the Wickford boat, having driven by road. It is understood, from New Bedford, from which city they had been driven out by the police, on account of their undesirable qualities.

Two women arrived on the 1 o'clock trip of steamer General, and the others on the 4 o'clock trip. The latter party included two men and a woman and a large number of children, ranging from a girl 14 years old, who was said to be the mother of one of the children, to a baby in its mother's arms. They came in two covered wagons, drawn by two ill-fed horses each, and their garments were scant and in some cases fantastic, including skirts made apparently of several colored handkerchiefs sewed together, and trousers of coarse bagging. None of the children wore hats, their hair was unkempt, while their faces, hands and bare feet showed little signs of having recently been washed. The party, which was variously counted as containing from 10 to 15, as soon as the wagons were drawn off the boat bundled into them and hid among the confusion of dirty bedding and coverings. It was a motley collection, and afforded a good opportunity for the Board of Health to prevent the spread of disease which, it seemed, must have been lurking in the filthy bedding and clothing. In a comparatively short time the horses were hitched to the wagons, and the caravan started up the wharf.

In the meantime the two women who had come in advance had been getting into trouble. They went to a house on Perry Mill wharf, to tell fortunes. One old man was willing to have his fortune told, and was accommodated. Part of the fortune telling consisted in throwing a glass of water into the man's face, and later he was relieved of $6.50, the alleged "fee" for the fortune telling. The man complained to the police, but as the money was recovered, and as it was not desired to prosecute the women, they and the later arrivals were ordered out of the city. Late in the afternoon the caravan wended its way out Broadway to pastures new, the city being well rid of an undesirable addition to its population.

The steamboat officials said it was impossible to collect regular fares for the transportation of the entire band from Wickford to Newport, but that the wagons and their loads of children and baggage had been transported on the basis of excess weight for baggage, the fee collected for the entire outfit which arrived on the 4 o'clock boat being $10.

PRAISE FOR NAVAL OFFICERS.

Acting Secretary of the Navy Newberry yesterday sent a letter to Rear Admiral Goodrich, commanding the Pacific station, commending him for the prompt and effective measures taken by him on the occasion of the earthquake and fire at San Francisco in the direction of the naval relief forces. In addition to the officers already commended in individual letters from the Navy Department, the following have been similarly mentioned: Lieutenant Colonel Lincoln Harmony and First Lieutenant W. F. Smith of the marine corps; Lieutenant Commander J. H. L. Holcombe, Captain Frank H. Holmes (retired), commanding the Marblehead; Lieutenant E. H. Dodd and Gunner LeRoy C. Hull.
